By ELMER DULMAGE, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Los Angeles, Calif., July 25.—Flag-decked Los Angeles, gay scene of the Olympic Games starting Saturday, greeted a strong contingent of athletes and officials from Canada, Great Britain, South Africa and Hungary to-day.

Arrival from Toronto of the big British and Hungarian party swelled to over 2,000 the number of competitors here for the games.

The Canadian Legion of Los Angeles led a large delegation of white flannelled Californians that met P. J. Mulcahey's Canadian group and several thousand crowded the station platform, many present to see England's famous hurdler, Lord David Burghley.

The athletes were taken from the station to Olympic Village, where they will live for the two weeks of the games.

SIDNEY SMITH EXPECTED HERE

Sidney Smith, internationally famed cartoonist and creator of "The Gumps," one of the most popular of the comic strips featured by the daily newspapers, and "Old Doc Yak," is visiting the Pacific Coast and will spend a short time in Victoria, it was learned here to-day.

The cartoonist is making a swing of the Pacific slope from Chicago, accompanied by his wife and secretary. He commenced his career as a cartoonist in 1895 in his home town with The Bloomington Sunday Eye, and has since been successful for The Indianapolis News, Indianapolis Press, Indianapolis Sentinel, Toledo News-Bee, Chicago Examiner, and has been with The Chicago Tribune since 1911.

Capt. von Gronau Heads For Cartwright After Pause at Greenland Port; Plans to Visit Montreal

Ottawa, July 25.—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator flying from Germany to Chicago via Montreal, left Iqviut, southwestern Greenland, at 10 a.m. to-day, Ottawa time (6 a.m. Victoria time), heading for Cartwright, on the Labrador coast. Canadian wireless officials received the news shortly after noon.

Copenhagen, July 25.—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator who is flying from Germany to Chicago, arrived yesterday at Iqviut, in southwestern Greenland, after a six-hour flight across the inland ice fields, according to advices received here.

REPORTED MELLON WILL RESIGN AS AMBASSADOR

ANDREW W. MELLON

Canadian Press
London, July 25.—The London Daily Herald to-day said Andrew W. Mellon, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, "is expected to resign" when he arrives in Washington on his present trip to the United States.

"It is believed he will tell President Hoover the coming negotiations on war debts should be in the hands of a younger man than he," The Herald added.

The London newspapers have been making something of a mystery of the ambassador's trip home ever since he left there a week ago to-day, declaring he was going to the United States for a holiday, taking advantage of a dull period in embassy work.

He himself said the trip had no political significance. To-day, however, his leaving was coupled with the departure of the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, from Washington and some newspapers besides The Herald printed dispatches from New York and Washington speculating on the coincidence.

Court Decides For Papen Prussia Plan

Supreme Tribunal of Germany Refuses Injunction to Prevent Ousting of State Government

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG

Associated Press
Leipzig, Germany, July 23.—The Supreme Court to-day declined Prussia's request for an injunction restraining Chancellor Franz von Papen, as commissioner, from interfering with activities of the state government.

The request for the injunction was made last week after President Paul von Hindenburg, by an emergency decree, had installed the chancellor as commissioner. The members of the Prussian state ministry were ousted following the chancellor's taking over control.

The court stated that granting of an injunction would mean dividing the authority in Prussia between the federal commissioner and the deposed Prussian cabinet. This the court held to be obviously impossible.

As the court is not in a position to suggest how the affairs of Prussia should be regulated pending litigation, it recommended that emergency decrees be speeded to the utmost in determining the legality and constitutionality of the emergency decree under which the federal authorities took over the power in Prussia.

Quebec Jobless March Broken Up
Montreal, July 25.—Unemployed of Verdun, 2,000 in number, to-day attempted to stage a march on the City Hall, but were halted and dispersed by Verdun police before they reached their destination. The chief of police and twenty constables broke up the parade. Eight participants were arrested.

Paris, July 25.—The cabinet gave its unanimous approval to-day to the disarmament formula of the World Disarmament Conference.

TREASURY NOTES SOLD IN U.S.

Washington, July 25.—Keeping pace with other government machinery in the United States relief drive, the Treasury is reaching out for new funds for the reconstruction Finance Corporation to invigorate business, create employment and aid the needy.

WINS AWARD TWICE IN DAY

Stan Gill Gains Unusual Distinction of Doubly Qualifying For Big Fish Medal

After having set the fish stand record for the season a few days ago by reaching out with his hand and scooping into the boat a very much surprised big salmon that was swimming by, Stan Gill has now completed a second record by qualifying twice during the one afternoon for the big fish button award at Brentwood.

Mr. Gill, fishing from his own oar-powered rowboat, took on his line and landed within a few minutes of each other two big fish. One went thirty-two pounds and the other thirty-one pounds when weighed after landing at the Brentwood dock. Capture of a fish in the Brentwood waters going over the thirty-pound mark entitles the fisherman to wear the award button of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association. It was pointed out to-day by officials of the organization that many men come from other parts of the continent and spend weeks fishing in the off-island waters in the hopes of qualifying for the coveted button, while most natives here go through their lives without getting into this distinguished class of sportsmen.

FAMOUS AIR PIONEER DIES

Alberto Santos Dumont Made First Flight in Own Dirigible in 1899

Brazilian Evolved Monoplane and Was Aviation Figure at Time of Wrights

Associated Press
Rio de Janeiro, July 25.—Alberto Santos Dumont, world pioneer of aviation, died at Sao Paulo yesterday. It was learned here to-day. He was born June 20, 1873, on the fazenda Cabanga, Brazil.

A pioneer in aerial navigation, Alberto Santos Dumont won recognition on three continents by his research, inventiveness and feats in the days that immediately preceded and followed the discoveries of the Wrights in the United States.

For thirty years he was the idol of his native Brazil, which always called him "pae da aviação" or "father of aviation," although most of his work was done in France, which honored him with membership in its Legion of Honor in 1909 and in 1913 erected a memorial at St. Cloud to commemorate his accomplishments.

The Americans knew him in 1916 as one of the early advocates of the intercontinental airways which now link Latin-America with the United States.

His first love was the free balloon, then the dirigible and finally the airplane. But he gave up flying after a nearly fatal crash in September, 1910, in which he took to the air in a dirigible known as "the grasshopper," which he had developed and which was the forerunner of the modern machines of that type.

In it he had set a world speed record of 55.8 miles an hour. Thereafter he stayed on the ground except for a flight in a free balloon piloted by Count de Vaux in the competition for the 1922 Grand Prix.

Santos Dumont was French by descent. He had his preliminary schooling in Sao Paulo and became interested in the problems of human flight, but early abandoned the idea of movable wings which aerial experimenters had envisaged from the time of Leonardo da Vinci.

Crossing the ocean to Paris in 1891, he found ballooning beyond the means of a rather slender purse, so he bought an automobile and began a study of internal combustion engines. It was six years before he took to the air. He had (Turn to Page 3, Col. 3)

ELEVEN HURT IN EXPLOSION

Associated Press
St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—A heavy explosion shook the downtown garage of the Pickwick-Greyhound Bus Lines here to-day while many employees were at work on machines. Eleven injured men were rushed to hospitals, and firemen immediately began digging in the debris in a search for other possible victims.

Ex-Kaiser's Moves In Holland Watched

Associated Press
The Hague, Holland, July 25.—Perpetual and increasing rumors that former Kaiser Wilhelm II has been engaged in political activities led M. Vos, a member of the Dutch lower House of Parliament, to ask the Premier to-day what measures the government had taken to prevent his political activities.

In recent months the names of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and his brothers have been frequently associated with a political movement on the Right in Germany. The ex-Crown Prince and ex-Prince Oscar recently paid a surprise visit to Doorn which aroused much speculation.

SENATOR'S WIFE DIES

Mrs. Gideon D. Robertson Succumbs in Ottawa; Funeral To-morrow

Ottawa, July 25.—Arrangements were completed to-day for the funeral to-morrow of the late Mrs. Gideon D. Robertson. A service will be held to-morrow afternoon in Chalmers' Church here.

The wife of Senator Robertson, former Minister of Labor, died yesterday of an infection of the blood after an illness of only three days.

Mrs. Robertson was stricken with a blood infection last Wednesday. The infection spread rapidly and in spite of the best efforts of physicians could not be cured. She died at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

She was prominent in women's work at the Central and an active church worker. When Senator Robertson, after illness had forced his resignation from the government, in which he held the labor portfolio, attended the International Labor Conference in Geneva some months ago, Mrs. Robertson accompanied him and nursed him through the illness which overtook him while alone in the city.

Mrs. Robertson, whose maiden name was Mary Berry Hay, was born at Watford, Ont., fifty-eight years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hay. She was married to Senator Robertson, June 10, 1896.

Premier Bennett, members of the cabinet and of the senate, to whom her death came as a distinct shock, expressed their regrets at the passing of Mrs. Robertson.

Mrs. Robertson is survived by the widowed daughter, Edna, and Mrs. Dr. T. Ingram of Hamilton, Ont., and Roy, Alma and Lorne at Ottawa. Another son, Elliott, was killed in the World War.

TEN LOSE LIVES IN SURF

Five Bodies Recovered Off Mouth of the El River, California

Canadian Press
Eureka, Calif., July 25.—Ten persons were believed drowned when ocean breakers overturned a twenty-six-foot speed craft carrying a picnic at the mouth of the El River, near here, late yesterday.

Five bodies had been recovered to-day. The coroner reported one other person was known to have drowned, and four persons were missing. Eleven were reported rescued.

The list of dead reported was: Ivor T. Torney, Sacramento, California, State Department of Agriculture, inspector of dairies, and his son; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morganti, Eureka, and Mr. and Mrs. E. de Bernardin, Eureka.

IRISH DRAFTING TRADE PLANS

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 25.—"We are in the committees doing our share like all the others; and like all the other parts of the empire we will submit our proposals," said a statement made by T. Sean O'Kelly, head of the Irish Free State delegation, on the trade position of his country before the opening of to-day's sessions of the Imperial Conference here. Mr. O'Kelly denied a statement attributed to him suggesting the Irish delegation might go home if there was no likelihood of doing real business.

London, July 25.—Foreign-grown potatoes imported into Great Britain will be subject to a duty of a ton by provisions of a Treasury order issued to-night under the Abnormal Importations Act.

BARGAINING WEEK OPENS AT OTTAWA

Difficult Days Begin, But Delegates Return Refreshed

By ARCHIE WILLS, Times Staff Correspondent
Ottawa, July 25.—Bargaining week has opened on Parliament Hill. This morning delegates, refreshed after week-end rest and less oppressive heat, resumed their task of attempting to straighten out the economic difficulties of the Empire. This is expected to be a difficult week as grappling with tariffs and driving of bargains will be actually undertaken.

Announcement made to the newspapers at noon told of the appointment of Downie Stewart as chairman of the customs committee. Sub-committees of experts will be appointed to consider technical details of tariffs. This committee will have much to do with the driving of bargains or giving of preferences.

No list is yet available of preferences Canada proposes, but it is said anathrache coal is to be included. No announcement of any great importance is expected for some days yet. Many details have to be discussed and perhaps fought over before agreements can be reached.

B.C. Soon to Have Tobacco Factory

Canadian Press
New Westminster, July 25.—Making another step in development of British Columbia's tobacco industry, J. A. McKercher, New Westminster, to-day announced manufacture of pipe and cigarette tobacco would be started shortly in this city.

Mr. McKercher has been interested for some time in cultivation of tobacco on the Sumas reclaimed area, where he has 250 acres of land devoted to that purpose.

Associated with Mr. McKercher in the venture will be Robert E. Kennedy Montreal, who will take charge of the manufacturing end.

Premier of Newfoundland, who arrived in the capital of Canada yesterday and attended his first Empire Conference session to-day.

MRS. GRIESBACH DIES SUNDAY

Widow of R.N.W.M.P. Veteran Succumbs at St. Joseph's; Mother of Senator

A link with pioneer days in the prairies was severed by the death this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital of Mrs. Emma Marie Griesbach, widow of Lieut.-Col. A. H. Griesbach, a veteran of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and mother of Major-Gen. the Hon. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., of Edmonton. Senator Griesbach was with his mother when she died, having been called here from Edmonton a few days ago.

Mrs. Griesbach was born in Hawkesbury, Ontario, over eighty years ago, and as a bride went to the prairies where her husband was stationed with the R.N.W.M.P. pioneering in Saskatchewan and Alberta for many years. Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Griesbach came to the coast and for a number of years resided in Chemainus, V.I., coming to Victoria about six years ago, and latterly residing at 806 Quadra Street.

The remains are reposing at the St. J. Curry and Son Funeral Home, and will be forwarded to Edmonton, where interment will be made.

Executive Fears Serious Results From Government's Parsimony to Pensioners

Declaring the recent reduction of the Dominion Government's scale of relief for war disability pensioners to be unjustified and likely to lead to serious results, officers of the British Columbia Command of the Canadian Legion are in Victoria to-day to seek the support of the provincial government for protests which they have forwarded to Ottawa.

T. A. Barnard, president, and Robt. Macnicol, secretary, strongly protested the action of the Department of Pensions and National Health in making drastic reductions in grocery and rent orders.

Discussions With Individual Dominions Proceed Side By Side With Imperial Conference Activities

WAY PAVED FOR GENERAL AGREEMENT

Hon. W. Downie Stewart of New Zealand Named Chairman of Customs Administration Committee

By GEORGE HANBLETON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 25.—Great Britain has opened bi-lateral negotiations with individual dominions. Side by side with Imperial Conference activities, these discussions will proceed, difficulties will be ironed out and the way paved, it is hoped, to conclusion of definite agreements. Negotiations between British and Canadian representatives come early on the list.

The British are awaiting the outcome of these discussions before announcing their policy in detail. They want better markets for such British products as textiles, leather and steel, but there is no desire, it is emphasized in British circles, to undercut the secondary industries of the Dominions. The British response to the Australian and South African plea for a British preference on meats from the free list under the Import Duties Act is not considered as the final word. The House, it is pointed out, gave the delegation to the conference a free hand in the Ottawa negotiations. At the same time, stress is laid on the point that further preferences must be reciprocal.

BENNETT'S PROPOSALS

In and about the conference itself, details are eagerly awaited of Premier Bennett's proposals. Members of visiting delegations are questioning what specific advantages Mr. Bennett proposes to make to the Canadian free list on what particular lines he proposes to give increased preference. A list has been circulated of around 8,000 items of which Canada might well stimulate the importation from empire countries. Anthracite coal is one of the free list. In regard to others there would be preferential rates. But the list, it is stated, is tentative rather than a formal proposal.

CUSTOMS COMMITTEE

To-day the conference committee on customs administration appointed Hon. W. Downie Stewart, New Zealand, as its chairman. It decided also to establish expert sub-committees to examine methods of customs administration. The idea is to remove red tape hindrances to empire trade.

Germany Supports Consultative Pact

London, July 25.—Germany notified the British Government to-day that it is willing, when the occasion arises, to adhere to the consultative pact recently negotiated by Great Britain and France.

U.S. Government Closure Order Will Be Opposed to Last Legal Ditch

Canadian Press
Chicago, July 25.—The Chicago Board of Trade to-day began a determined battle to the last legal ditch against federal closure, but was undecided as to the course to follow.

Whether to lock its doors for sixty days or to surrender by admitting the Farmers' National Grain Corporation to trading privileges would not be discussed until recourse to courts of law had been exhausted, President Peter B. Carey said.

He blamed the closing order, issued Saturday by three cabinet members, on "President Hoover's job-holders, who naturally would not decide against the subsidiary of the President's pet Farm Board."

Turner Valley Gas Pressure Weakens

Conservation Board Says Tests of Wells Show Flow Rapidly Diminishing

Calgary, July 25.—Tests made by the Turner Valley Gas Conservation Board reveal the gas pressure in Turner Valley fields is dropping quickly. The tests are being made with a view to curtailing gas production in an effort to prolong the field's life.

Compared with the situation eleven months ago, the tests show, there has been a reduction in gas pressure of nearly 200 pounds per square inch in the north and central parts of Turner Valley. If rigid conservation is not enforced, the board maintains, wells in this area will be unable to supply gas to Calgary under their own pressure in less than three years.

Only two areas in the southern area of Turner Valley will be able to supply the city with gas in twenty years if production is not lowered drastically, it is believed.

Practically every well in the valley has been shut in to make the tests after a great struggle between the board and a number of independent gas companies which closed down their wells only after threatened with prosecution by the government.

flag? "There is no Canadian flag," the interviewers replied. "That is why there are two Union Jacks up there—one for Great Britain and one of Canada."

"But I have seen a Canadian flag," said Mr. Chamberlain. "One with a Canadian coat of arms. Why isn't that used?"

"It is not the official Canadian flag," someone else replied. "What is the official Canadian flag?" "There is no such thing," was the reply. "We just use the Union Jack."

However, while there is no Canadian flag, the Ottawans were able to point out a Canadian bunting to the visitors. On the walls of the buildings flanking Connaught Square, the bunting is arranged in the following order: India, South Africa, New Zealand, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, Irish Free State, Newfoundland and Southern Rhodesia.

including pension," said Mr. Barnard. "Many pensioners suffer from non-pensionable disabilities as well as pensionable ones. Any reduction in relief rates that makes necessary less support for these men must eventually lead to their going back to hospital again, thereby increasing the expenses of the treatment branch of the department."

Mr. Macdonell expressed the view that the veterans in Canada have been extremely patient during present depressed conditions. He pointed out that the Canadian Legion, in order not to unduly embarrass the Dominion Government, had refrained from pressing for needed amendments to the Pension Act that would further increase the expenditures of the people of Canada or veterans and their dependents.

The officials stated that definite action had been taken by the Canadian Legion to offer the strongest opposition to the recent decision of the federal cabinet to reduce relief to pensioners.

W. H. MALKIN

SAYS BUSINESS TIDE TURNING

W. H. Malkin Returns to Vancouver From Britain With Good Cheer Message

Vancouver, July 25.—There is a feeling in England that the tide has turned and that the British Empire is heading toward a brighter economic day, according to W. H. Malkin, who has returned from a two-month trip to Great Britain. "There is certainly more optimism there than in any other country of the world," he said.

The passage of the Conversion Loan Bill had a tremendous effect throughout Great Britain, Mr. Malkin said, and there was an immediate response in way of improved sentiment and quickened business.

"One thing which will impress any visitor to England," he continued, "is the efficient manner in which the country is handling its unemployment problem. There is less begging on the streets of London than there is in Vancouver, and there is a deeper sense of satisfaction among the unemployed there than there is in this country."

Mr. Malkin found the people of Great Britain regarding the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa with satisfaction and hope. They did not expect any immediate revolutionary changes, he said, but they did think the conference would make for a better understanding among the members of the British Commonwealth, and a great lasting result would be in knitting the empire more closely.

Stopping a few days in Montreal, Mr. Malkin found a more hopeful feeling among the business men of that centre. It was apparent they too thought the tide was turning, he said.

cell said their order would be effective August 8.

Officials of the Board of Trade revealed records of directors meeting last April showing three barrels of wine were included in the payment by the Uplake Grain Company. It was that transaction that gave the corporation membership in the board's clearing house which caused their controversy.

P. J. Thatcher testified before the board's directors he had sold his 249 shares of Uplake stock to President C. E. Huff and General Manager George E. Huff. Thatcher said he had sold the shares for $200 a share, and that J. P. Florant Jr. got three barrels of wine for his one share.

"You just testified that Florant might get considerably more than $200, but what would that depend on?" Thatcher was asked, according to the records.

"The quality of the wine," he replied. Directors said Milnor objected to questions about the wine.

The source of the wine was not shown.

WINNIEP LITTLE AFFECTED

Ottawa, July 25.—Little effect on the Winnipeg Grain Market is expected by Canadian wheat men from the suspension Saturday of the Chicago Board of Trade by the United States commission acting for the Federal Farm Board. "This was expected to-day from a number of representatives of Canadian grain interests, who are acting as 'observers' at the Imperial Economic Conference here."

The belief was that the difficulties would be ironed out before the commission's order became effective on August 8, and that the suspension would not actually become operative.

In brief the explanation was given for the suspension had been ordered because the Board of Trade had itself suspended the Farmers' National Grain Corporation—a subsidiary of the Federal Farm Board. Dependent on votes of Congress for its funds, the corporation was held by the Board of Trade to have had insufficient capital.

Complaint against such action resulted, in effect, in the Federal Farm Board, the parent organization, and the official machine set up by the United States Government, suspending through the medium of the commission, the Board of Trade.

IRISH TARIFF AGAINST BRITAIN

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 25.—Almost prohibitive duties against imports from Great Britain were set forth to-night when the Free State published its list of articles embraced in the special tariff bill passed by the Dail Eireann last week.

Twenty per cent ad valorem rates are assessed against iron and steel and their manufactures, cement and electrical apparatus. Heavy levies also are made on coal, pigs, meat, sausages and sugar products and the importation of cheese is prohibited.

FARMERS' VIEWS ON CONFERENCE

Macaulay Tells Saskatchewan Agrarians Ottawa May Disappoint Them

Saskatoon, July 2.—People who look to the Imperial Conference for relief from present conditions are due for a disappointment, in the opinion of A. J. Macaulay, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section. In his presidential address at the opening of the annual convention of the Saskatchewan farmers here today, Mr. Macaulay said the only hope for improvement in the lot of the common people, farmers and other primary producers, lay in a complete change in the duty of the system.

"The competitive system of production for profit under private control has now become so faulty and so full a burden on society that its failure is inevitable," he said. "It is its dying hours it is endeavoring to and to prevent it from functioning in the way it should."

"The duty of the people is to decide whether they wish to sustain a political administration such as we have had since the days of Confederation, an administration that has given privileges and allowed fruits of your labor to be taken by a few financiers of Canada who control the individual and who constitute the 'invisible hand' that directs the government of your Dominion, or whether they will substitute a government that will give consideration to a state medium of exchange."

PLANNED SYSTEM
A planned system of national economy, Mr. Macaulay said, would "return to the people the results of their labor through a system administered and controlled by the people themselves in place of the present capitalist and dynastic system of exploitation which has only existed on deceit, confiscation and expropriation, and which is destructive of the personal initiative and liberties of the people and the basis of the social legislation necessary to co-operative commonwealth."

Administration from the various dominions are meeting in Ottawa, the president continued, "in an endeavor to change conditions while the common people are looking to this conference for measures of relief. They have looked to many such conferences in the past. Many times they have met with disappointment, and I can only see one more disappointment in that they will receive the same treatment as before from the 'invisible hand' which controls the governments and destinies of nations."

D. J. O'BRIEN DIES IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, July 25.—Daniel J. O'Brien, aged 68, president of the O'Brien Logging Co. Limited, died Sunday at his home, Bidwell Street. He had been in failing health for some time.

Born in the eastern states, he formerly resided at Tacoma. On coming to Vancouver twenty-six years ago he entered the logging business, in which he had been actively interested until his death.

Besides the widow, he is survived by two sons, George O'Brien and J. D. O'Brien, and three grandchildren. A sister in the east also survives him.

Discovers Sister Drowned in Well

Queens, B.C., July 25.—The six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Johnson of Nixon Creek, sixty miles north of here, was drowned Saturday in a spring well on the Johnson place. Wondering what was delaying the child, who had gone for a pail of water, Mrs. Johnson sent the girl's eight-year-old brother to the well, which is in a covey a short distance from the house. The boy found the body at the bottom of seven feet of water. Mr. Morris, a neighbor, who was passing by, recovered the body. Mrs. Frundell, district nurse at Woodpecker, made efforts at resuscitation.

TWO GIRLS ARE DROWNED

Hubbard, Sask., July 25.—Two sisters were drowned and four other girls were rescued after the worst accident of years in this community.

Those who lost their lives were Eleanor Parno, seventeen, and Alma Parno, fifteen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Parno, farmers, who live two miles east of Hubbard.

Helen Schultz, sixteen; Katie Burnhardt, fourteen; Mary Burnhardt, twelve, and Lena Burnhardt, eleven, of Hubbard, were rescued.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon when the girls, riding on a raft, tipped into twenty-one feet of water.

Vancouver Island Area May Become National Park; Inspected By C.P.R. Men

Vancouver, July 25.—In response to many requests that Forbidden Plateau, on Vancouver Island, be set aside as a national park, the area is being inspected this week by J. E. McMullen, solicitor of the C.P.R. in Vancouver, and Newton J. Ker, chief executive assistant and land agent of the company.

The territory is part of the original land grant of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, subsidiary of the C.P.R., and Mr. McMullen and Mr. Ker will report on its present condition.

More than three-quarters of a million Kamloops trout eggs have been placed in Forbidden Plateau lakes since 1929, and fishing was recently opened.

The Canadian Pacific officials are accompanied on their trip by W. P. Ragan, chief timber cruiser of the E. and N. land department.

Shocks Recorded Here and at Observatory Near Washington, D.C.

An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded on the seismograph at Gonzales Observatory this morning beginning at 1.19 o'clock, it was reported by F. Napier Denison, Dominion meteorologist. The epicentre was calculated as about 2,500 miles south of Victoria, in the region of the Gulf of Tehuantepec on the west coast of Mexico, some distance south of Mexico City. The shocks commenced to register here at 1.19 a.m. and continued for about three hours.

Washington, July 25.—The Georgetown Observatory to-day reported instruments showed earthquake shocks of considerable intensity about 2,300 miles southwest of Washington, probably in Mexico, beginning at 4.19 a.m. Eastern standard time, and ending about 5.30 a.m.

Administration from the various dominions are meeting in Ottawa, the president continued, "in an endeavor to change conditions while the common people are looking to this conference for measures of relief. They have looked to many such conferences in the past. Many times they have met with disappointment, and I can only see one more disappointment in that they will receive the same treatment as before from the 'invisible hand' which controls the governments and destinies of nations."

REPORTS GANDHI MAY BE FREED

Poon, India, July 24.—Rumors that negotiations for the release of Mahatma Gandhi, the civil disobedience leader, were under way, were revived here to-day following the arrival yesterday of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. R. Nayakar, members of the recent Round-Table Conference.

Both denied they came here for any stated purpose, adding they were only visiting friends.

SHRINERS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Thousands of Visitors Welcomed as Big Convention Gets Under Way

San Francisco, July 25.—By special train, airplane, automobile and ship, nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine poured into San Francisco to-day in preparation for the fifty-eighth annual session of the order's imperial council, set to open to-morrow.

Railroad yards, already crowded with special trains which arrived yesterday, were scenes of activity as almost every hour brought new arrivals. The city's downtown district, bedecked with obelisks and Oriental rugs, mosques and minarets, banners and bunting, became the centre for gala throngs.

At the National Court Order of Jesters and the twelfth annual meeting of the Shrine Recorders' Association, to-day's pre-convention programme was devoted to registration of arrivals, entertainment and sightseeing. A yacht regatta off the San Francisco Bay waterfront, band concerts and a Chinatown fête were principal items on the entertainment programme. Exercises of the Imperial Council sessions will open with a ceremonial in a specially-prepared stadium at the city's civic centre. Contrary to custom, the initial ceremonial will be open to the public.

Uniformed units due to arrive on special trains to-day included Karnak, Montreal, Canada; Affix, Tacoma, Wash.; Glash, Victoria, B.C.; Alaska, Portland, Ore.; and Nile, Seattle, Wash.

TWO SLAYERS EVADE POSSES

Searchers Believe Murderers Crossed Into Montana From Alberta

Medicine Hat, Alta., July 25.—Police posse were baffled to-day as they continued their search for two unidentified men, slayers of Pete Borge, a farmer who had lived among them for the last twenty years. The posse was set for this afternoon.

News trickling through to Medicine Hat to-day from the isolated farming district of Comely indicated the searchers had made no progress in their hunt for the pair of men who early Saturday morning drove away from Borge's farm, leaving him battered and fatally wounded.

Racing to the door at the sound of shooting, Ardum Odgaard, thirty-eight-year-old hired man, received a bullet through the chest and to-day was in the Medicine Hat hospital with but an even chance for life.

There is no telegraphic nor telephone communication from here to Comely, and the only details of the search to reach here were brought by car and police reports.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment was augmented by armed settlers and farmers, but this afternoon no trace had been found of the wanted men. Searchers say the assassins probably crossed the international border into Montana, only eight miles from the scene of the shooting.

CONSERVATIVES EXPECT TO MEET

Vancouver, July 25.—E. G. Sherwood, president of the Vancouver Conservative Association, will probably accept the request of petitioners with the organization asking for a special meeting to discuss questions relating to the welfare of the party.

Several days ago a petition was prepared by leaders of that section of the party in Vancouver which is discontented with present leadership and policy of the government at Victoria. This petition has now the necessary number of signatures required by the constitution of the association and will be presented to Mr. Sherwood immediately.

"I suppose, if the petition is in order, I have no alternative but to call a meeting," said Mr. Sherwood.

NEW COLORS CONSECRATED

Governor-General's Footguards Centre of Ottawa Ceremony Held Yesterday

By W. W. MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 25.—Consecration of new colors of the Governor-General's Footguards was performed on the grounds of Government House here yesterday in the presence of an immense crowd, among whom the guests of honor were the delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference. Brilliant sunshine, the colorful garb of the regiment, the sheen of bayonet and sword, the gorgeous gowns of the feminine portion of the crowd and the general atmosphere of something unusual being carried out, all contributed toward making the ceremony successful.

But above all was the march past by the Governor-General's Footguards of the old Second Canadian Infantry Battalion, who had congregated from all parts of the province to take part in the ceremony. Bemedalled, as befits men who served their country well in the "Great War," marching with the steady swing, the upright bearing, the proud and unconquerable spirit of this splendid unit of the old Canadian corps, the veterans of the Second, invited by the Guards to participate in the ceremony, played their part with dignity and honor.

The Footguards, with the Peterborough Rangers, perpetuate the Second Canadian Battalion. In this general "hook-up" are embraced the Goldstream Guards and the Middlesex Regiment (the old "Die Hards"). The Footguards are allied with the Goldstreamers, and the Peterborough Rangers with the Middlesex Regiment. During the war the Second Battalion came in, in intimate contact with both, and thus was the logical liaison for a combination of military units whose reputations stand high in the army records.

Quarter of World's People Represented

Ottawa, July 25.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has figured that British Empire countries, represented in Ottawa cover one-quarter of the surface of the globe and are peopled by almost one-quarter of the inhabitants of the earth. There are 49,442,824 British in Europe; 12,280,000 in North America, including the West Indies and British Honduras; 315,867 in South America, 363,934,806 in Asia, 54,960,659 in Africa and 9,235,340 in Oceania, the total being 490,169,940.

HUNT ROBBERS IN VANCOUVER

Police Act on Reports of Several Crimes in Which Money Taken

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 25.—Reaching through an open window in the suite of C. E. Davis at 1446 West Tenth Avenue Saturday evening, a thief carried off a suit with $10 in its pockets. A radio set, valued at $120, was stolen from a truck of the Marconi Co. Bekins Building, Feider and Beatty Streets. The truck was parked at the rear of the company's premises.

The suite of W. Hawkins, 61 West Cordova Street, was entered and household goods and effects valued at $250 taken.

A suite prowler stole $40 from H. Dea, 1101 Nicola Street.

Decoyed from his store by a simple ruse, Wong Kee, manager of the Victoria Produce Co., 1745 Commercial Drive, was held up by two bandits, who had a woman confederate, in the 1400 block of East Third Avenue at 10:15 Saturday evening and was slugged and robbed of $58.

Wong Kee managed to stagger back to his store and called the police, who rendered first aid and endeavored to locate the bandits and their woman accomplice.

ROBBERS TOOK $110

Two armed men held up Yet Mon and Long Yum, clerks, in the store of the Marpole Produce Co., Sixteenth Avenue and Heather Street, shortly after 11:30 Saturday evening and escaped with $110.

Both bandits carried revolvers and first compelled their victims to hold up their hands, but on seeing no resistance was being offered told them they could take them down.

While one man kept the clerks under threat of his weapon the other rifled the cash register. Both men then fled to a waiting automobile and drove away.

Slugged down by two men as he was locking his store at 313 Cambie Street, Saturday at 1:30 p.m., T. Toyama was robbed of his keys. No attempt was made by the thugs to enter the store.

Toyama, who was bruised and cut about the head, called the police, but his assailants evaded capture.

ALDERDICE AT OTTAWA

Newfoundland Premier Joins Empire Delegates at Conference

Says His Country Wishes to Sell More Ore to Empire

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 25.—Last of the Empire Economic Conference delegation heads to reach Ottawa, Hon. F. C. Alderdice, who recently became Prime Minister of Newfoundland, arrived in the capital yesterday evening, accompanied by several advisers. Premier Bennett was at the station to greet Mr. Alderdice and to welcome him to the conference. He was accompanied by Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, and Hon. L. E. Emerson, Newfoundland Minister of Justice, who represented that Dominion at the opening of the conference.

"We want the empire to give serious consideration to the purchase of our ore," said the Premier. At the present time, although Newfoundland was buying finished steel and hardware products from Great Britain, only one company, an automobile plant, was purchasing ore from Newfoundland, he explained.

Markets would also be sought for cod liver oil, chilled salmon and lumber.

FAMOUS AIR PIONEER DIES

his first flight with two Frenchmen, Lechambe and Machuron, who had written an imaginative book, "Andree, or In a Balloon to the North Pole." Thirty years later the finding of Andree's body and diary on a lonely Arctic island proved almost every item in the book to be fact.

FIRST FLIGHT IN 1898

Santos Dumont made his first dirigible flight in June, 1898, ascending from the Jardin d'Acclimation in Paris in an airship which he had constructed and named "Brasil." From that time on he was a world figure in aerial development.

Between 1898 and 1906 he built seven lighter than air ships, all of which bore his name in numerical sequence. On October 19, 1901, with the Santos Dumont, he won the Deutsch de la Meurthe prize of 100,000 francs, offered for the first circuit flight from the French Aero Club at St. Cloud around the Eiffel Tower in Paris and return. This trip took thirty minutes.

Later he made it in Nos. VI and VII, receiving a gold medal from the government of Brazil for the first and 3,000 francs for the second.

In 1903 he erected at Neuilly, the first dirigible, which he used for flights over the house-tops of Paris.

URNS TO PLANES

In 1905, two years after Orville Wright had made the first powered flight in the history of man, Santos Dumont turned to heavier than air craft. Applying his knowledge of gas engines, he experimented at first with a propeller, but gave that up and constructed a box kite type of machine, which on September 30, 1906, he took off the ground at Bagatelle, flying 560 feet at a height of four feet and at the rate of eighteen miles an hour. On November 12 of the same year he went up twenty feet and flew 700 feet in 21 2-8 seconds, a speed of twenty-three miles an hour.

These feats attracted attention, although they were scarcely comparable with the flights already made by Orville Wright, who had in 1903 "sold" his ideas to the United States army by carrying Lieut. Benjamin D. Foulois on a flight of twenty-four miles at a rate of forty-two miles an hour.

EVOLVED MONOPLANE
Next Santos Dumont tried hydroair-planes, using the Seine at Paris as an experimental "field." He had indifferent success and went back to land machines, finally evolving the monoplane, which eventually became his most notable contribution to aeronautics.

Courage and perseverance were marked characteristics of Santos Dumont and they stood him in good stead, especially when some of his misadventures seemed more comic than serious.

One of these took place when he was making an early try for the Deutsch prize. His machine landed in a tree on the estate of Princess Isabelle, daughter of Dom Pedro II of Brazil. She had a ladder placed against the tree and sent a specially prepared luncheon up to the young aeronaut, who was more concerned about his wrecked airship than he was about either food or his hostess. There was a lot of public laughter about the incident, but the princess admired his courage and gave him a medal which he carried for many years as a good luck piece.

U.S. LAUGHED AT FLYING

His impetuosity helped him still more on a trip to the United States in the days when flying was generally considered a crack-brained idea. He was dubbed "the modern Darius Greco" and was laughed out of the country. It was the only public setback of his whole career.

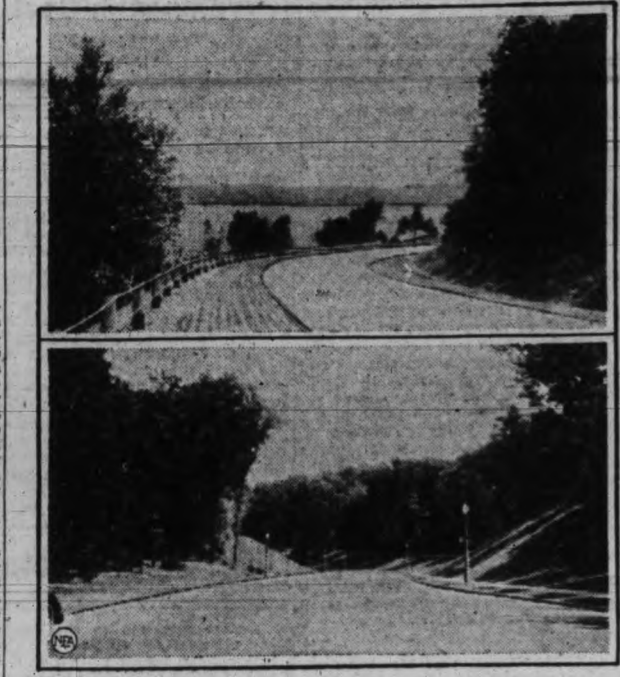

When the World War came Santos Dumont offered his engineering services to France, but when aircraft began to be used on the battlefields and for air raids over defenceless cities, he turned away from the carnage, saying he could not bear to see the machines which he had always envisaged as instruments of closer contact and better understanding between nations, turned into instruments of death and destruction.

GRIEVED BY ACCIDENT

Brasil, which had always hailed Santos Dumont as its first scientist, prepared a huge welcome for him when he arrived there from Paris on December 3, 1928, but it was turned into a tragedy. A large plane, named the Alberto Santos Dumont, circled over his steamer as it entered the harbor of Rio de Janeiro.

Just as the welcoming din was at its height, the plane went into a tailspin, crashed and all fourteen occupants, including several women, were drowned. The shock of this accident bore heavily on Santos Dumont. A month later he went back to Paris as guest of the Aero Club of France and to receive the medal of the International Aviation Society. His health failed and when in June, 1931, he returned to Brasil, he was a sick man. He retired then to Sao Paulo, where he died.

Would Nationalize Bank of England

Labor Party of Britain Will Consider Committee's Proposal at Convention in October

Canadian Press
London, July 25.—A plan for nationalizing the Bank of England is included in a report of the Labor Party on currency, banking and finance, issued here to-day. It will be presented to the party conference in October.

Under the plan the governor of the bank would be appointed by the government and he would be subject to the direction of the cabinet.

The report also recommends permanent abandonment of the gold standard and establishment in its stead of a "managing currency" which would keep the average level of international prices stable so the pound in Great Britain would always buy approximately the same amount of goods. An international agreement is suggested to secure as far as possible stability in the rate of foreign exchange.

Another proposal calls for the establishment of a national investment board to control new public issues of capital and to direct capital in such a way as to result in the greatest national benefit.

OPEN DOOR TO RUSSIA URGED

Soviet Great Potential Market, U.S. Publisher Tells Editorial Group

Associated Press
Los Angeles, July 25.—Describing Russia as one of North America's greatest potential markets, Crombie Allen, Ontario, Calif., publisher and student of foreign commerce, urged the National Editorial Association here to promote a friendly "open door" policy toward that nation.

"Russia is neither a heaven nor a hell under the Soviet Five-year Plan," the speaker said. "It is a kind of in-between place like any other country, but it should be interesting to all of us to know that Russia is really doing something big, something really on a gigantic scale."

"Russia is far from being a menace economically or politically. Communist talk will not injure anyone. There will be no so-called Red violence if the people are allowed to talk."

IN WAKE OF WEST VIRGINIA FLOODS

Here is a scene typical of the devastation found by relief workers as they pushed into the mud-covered valleys of Fayette and Kanawha counties in West Virginia in the wake of floods which cost at least eighteen lives and drove hundreds of persons from their homes. The picture shows a country church undermined by Armstrong Creek in Fayette County. Relief organizations followed the receding waters in desperate efforts to save the lives of more than 1,000 persons left without shelter, food or pure drinking water.

IDENTIFICATION REPORT DENIED

Canadian Press
Montreal, July 25.—Denial that Salvatore Arena, reported on July 4 as having been killed in a fight between Fascists and Anti-Fascists in New York, was the man of the same name suspected of participation in the Hochelega Bank money car hold-up in 1924, is made by the Italian consulate here. Montreal sent photos and fingerprints of the bandit to the New York Detective Bureau, which was reported by the Montreal authorities to have telegraphed identification.

The Montreal police advised newspaper here the Italian killed in New York had been "positively identified" through fingerprints and photographs as the Salvatore Arena who figured in the bank car hold-up. Later the New York Detective Bureau wired: "Unable to make positive identification—endeavoring to obtain fingerprints."

Massimo Zanotti-Bianco, Italian consul here, claims the Arena killed in New York was born in 1899, while the Montreal Arena was born in 1896. Mr. Zanotti-Bianco also claims that apart from there being no fingerprint identification as erroneously reported, the New York Italian did not look like police photos of the bank car hold-up suspect.

Shot Because He Ignored Bandits

Los Angeles, July 25.—Police to-day said they believed W. J. Kirkpatrick, sixty-five-year-old coal merchant of Battle Creek, Mich., sacrificed his life Saturday to make good a boast he would never submit to robbing.

Kirkpatrick, a visitor to the Olympic games with his wife, was shot when he chanced on a jewelry store holdup and deliberately turned to walk out after one of the three robbers had ordered him to raise his hands.

BRING BODY FROM LABRADOR WILDS

St. John's, Nfld., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Pilot Harold Crowley of Boston yesterday returned to Hopedale from Labrador with a body believed to be that of either Herman Kohler or Fred Connell, two adventurous United States men who started a canoe trip into the Labrador-Quebec Peninsula last July, or their guide, Jim Martin, of the Hudson's Bay Company. The body was found by Mascopee Indians in June.

TO HEAL BREACH IN ARGENTINA

Canadian Press
Buenos Aires, July 25.—Move to heal the breach between the two factions of Argentina's Radical Party, the split of which made possible the Conservative revolution of 1930, was under way here to-day.

The leaders of the two factions, former presidents Marcelo T. de Alvear and Hipolito Yrigoyen, met at a "peace" conference yesterday in Yrigoyen's apartment.

FLAGS AT OTTAWA

THE DELEGATIONS OF THE VARIOUS dominions at Ottawa are flying their distinctive national flags. Canada has no official flag of her own so Mr. Bennett has met this somewhat invidious situation by using the red ensign of the Canadian Mercantile Marine on his motor car. An Ottawa dispatch thus describes the matter of Dominion flags:

Every flag of the British Empire floats over the Chateau Laurier to-day except that of Canada. Newspapermen's attention was called to the fact by Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain. "It is a striking scene," he said, "but where is your Canadian flag?" "There is no Canadian flag," the interviewers replied. "That is why there are two Union Jacks up there—one for Great Britain and one for Canada."

"But I have seen a Canadian flag," said Mr. Chamberlain. "I saw it with a Canadian coat of arms. Why isn't that used?"

"It is not the official Canadian flag," someone else replied. "What is the official Canadian flag?" "There is no such thing," was the reply. "We just use the Union Jack."

However, while there is no Canadian flag, the Ottawans were able to point out a Canadian bunting to the visitors. On the walls of the buildings flanking Connaught Square, the bunting is arranged in the following order: India, South Africa, New Zealand, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, Irish Free State, Newfoundland and Southern Rhodesia.

We may presume, therefore, that if nothing much else comes out of the conference, the Canadian delegates will be sufficiently impressed by the fact that for the host Dominion to be without a flag of its own struck Mr. Neville Chamberlain and his colleagues as most extraordinary. We wonder how Mr. Bennett is enjoying the sight of a ship's flag flying over the bonnet of his automobile.

BORAH SPEAKS OUT

FOR YEARS SENATOR BORAH HAS insisted that Europe pay her debts to the United States. But he now says that cancellation of the debts in connection with, and as a part of a programme, including the settlement of other war problems, would be in the interests of his country. Senator Borah is styled an independent Republican. His proposal is both significant and important, however, because he is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and is generally recognized as an outstanding spokesman on international problems. At the same time, he is not likely to attract much support from his fellow Congressmen before the elections. It is pointed out that Congress has been almost unanimously against even a discussion of the revision of the debts. It even went so far as to append to the resolution which sanctioned the moratorium last year a sentence expressing the sentiment of Congress as being against further reduction or cancellation of debts.

What Europe will say to the United States about the money she owes her may be known before very long. The proceedings at Lausanne were not calculated to put the American taxpayer in the best frame of mind. Great Britain, of course, is not in the habit of defaulting. There is none the less a limit to her capacity for paying. She has just asked her people—and they have responded with remarkable public spirit—to turn in $10,000,000,000 worth of five per cent bonds, take a cash bonus of five dollars a share, and then be content with three and one-half per cent. This will mean an annual saving for the treasury of more than $100,000,000. It is true, but there is still that enormous national debt of approximately $38,000,000,000 facing the British people.

It was only to be supposed that Senator Borah's suggestion would be welcomed in the Old Country. The London press thinks his "conversion" is "a considerable straw in a wind that is beginning to blow" in the United States for debt revision. The Daily Telegraph says "his courage and candor will receive unstinted recognition in this country and elsewhere." The News-Chronicle may be going a little far in declaring that "what Borah says is generally what the mass of Americans is thinking," although there is a very influential element which would like to wipe the slate clean.

Back of all this debt controversy is the question of what the United States could or would do in the event of Europe telling her flatly that since Germany has been let off, for that is what the Lausanne treaty really means, she is not able to pay. No army will be sent over to try to collect by force. France learned the futility of that method when she went into the Ruhr.

RAILWAY CONSOLIDATION

SOME IDEA OF THE NEIGHBORING republic's railway problems may be gathered from the fact that there is now under consideration a plan for the unification of many roads in the eastern states under four great systems. If the plan were to be adopted, the carriers would be grouped under the Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York Central. The Delaware and Hudson and the Seaboard Air Line would constitute independent systems, while the Pennsylvania would be forbidden entry into New England.

This consolidation scheme has been submitted to the roads by the Interstate Commerce Commission and its main object is to end years of wrangling how unification could be brought about to preserve competition, yet serve the public adequately and save money.

While the limelight has been turned on full strength from some quarters on the affairs of the Canadian National Railways in attempts to convince the public that this publicly-owned institution is the only railway system having troublesome times, the people of this country ought to be reminded at this time that at the last session of Parliament, Premier Bennett informed the House of Commons that the shares of the New York Central were selling at twelve dollars—this was in May; they are at about thirteen dollars now—while a few months before the Prime Minister made his statement the price was around $200 a share. In fact, Mr. Bennett said the railway situation on this continent was one "which beggars all description."

A dispatch from the Old Country the other day mentioned that a further consolidation of the systems over there is in contemplation.

MRS. RUNCIMAN SPILLS THE BEANS

MRS. WALTER RUNCIMAN, WIFE OF Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, has gone and spilled the beans all over everything at Ottawa. She gave an interview in which she said "the women of England want the best and cheapest food," and that on no account would they stand for taxes on foodstuffs.

Of course it was a very naughty thing for Mrs. Runciman to do. She is a keen politician at home and, incidentally, a free trader. We wonder what passed between her and her husband after the decree went forth that, after her indiscretion, no more interviews were to be given out.

Mrs. Runciman certainly tipped a lot out of her mind when she said the women of her country will not stand for dearer food.

WAITING FOR THE ELECTIONS?

PRUSSIA'S REQUEST FOR AN INJUNCTION restraining Chancellor von Papen from interfering with the activities of the government of that state was refused by the German Supreme Court at Leipzig to-day. The request was made last week after President Hindenburg had issued an emergency decree installing the Chancellor as commissioner, following which, it will be remembered, the Premier and members of the Prussian ministry were peremptorily ejected and democratic government ceased to exist there.

In giving its decision the court declared that the granting of an injunction would mean dividing the authority in Prussia between the federal commissioner and the deposed Prussian cabinet. The court held this to be obviously impossible. But it recommended that as it was not in a position to suggest how the affairs of Prussia could be regulated pending litigation, proceedings should be speeded to the utmost for the purpose of determining the legality and constitutionality of the decree under which the federal authorities assumed power over Prussia.

If this decision means anything at all, it would seem to mean that the Supreme Court's authority is inferior to a decree issued by the President, drawn up and agreed upon, of course, by the Von Papen ministry. There would be no necessity to divide authority in Prussia between the federal commissioner and the deposed Prussian cabinet if the Supreme Court were to override the decree, tell Chancellor von Papen to get out for the time being, and then take the necessary proceedings to determine, as the court says, the legality and constitutionality of the decree in question.

The inference no doubt will be drawn in many quarters that the Supreme Court has been brought under the power of the "Moose Ministry." It is hardly likely that the litigation proceedings which the court says should be speeded up can be hurried sufficiently to enable the case to be heard before the general elections next Sunday. Upon the result of those elections, or rather the course which the Von Papen ministry pursues afterward, depends a great deal more than the constitutional argument in regard to Prussia. The one certain thing is that if Junkerdom attempts to reintroduce military domination the German people will deal with the situation.

Now we are told that there are "bacon problems" at the Imperial Conference. We had a butter problem in Canada two years ago!

The delegation of the Irish Free State to the Imperial Economic Conference finds itself in an uncomfortable position. It is unable to enter into any discussions with Great Britain, on account of what Mr. Seon O'Kelly calls the "unfortunate situation" which has developed between the two countries at home. The Free State brought this difficulty on itself.

A dispatch from London says "the more sober section of the press points out that while Mr. Bennett's offer is valuable, everything depends on what it means when boiled down to hard facts." When the Prime Minister tells the conference what he proposes to let in free, or how he proposes to scale down the present customs duties, it will be possible to judge of the practicability of his proposals.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

A PICNIC OF THE DEAD
From Collier's

One of the strangest sights in the world is on a mountain top of Luzon, Philippine Islands. Fully clothed and sitting in groups of from ten to twenty-five each, there are hundreds of bodies of Igorota which have been mummified by the hot, dry air—their method of burial. It resembles a vast picnic.

DUKE OF WELLINGTON PAYS STRANGE RENT
The Calgary Herald

A little silken flag only a few inches square was handed to the King recently at Windsor Castle. It represents one of the strangest annual rents paid in the world.

The Duke of Wellington, who hands the flag to the King each year, holds his estate of Stratfield Saye in Hampshire, as the descendant of the famous Duke, who was presented with the estate by the government after his victory at Waterloo.

The conditions of the grant were that every year on the anniversary of the battle the Duke and his successors should hand the reigning monarch a tricolor flag in remembrance of the victory, and for more than a hundred years successive dukes have paid the tribute.

When the King received the flag from the Duke it was hung in accordance with custom, over the bust of the first Duke in Windsor Castle guardroom.

Loose Ends

The old cry continues, with the same stupidity and new vigor—an alarming symptom is discovered—and I hear bad news from the big ranch on the hill.

By H. B. W.

THE GREAT cry against education continues in the land as if the whole economic problem of these times could be solved by closing a few schools and turning a few more illiterates into the world. It is notable, however, that the cry, as usual, comes from the most part from those past middle age, from the generation whose supreme achievement was the World War. Its reasoning is remarkable. Having created the present condition of the world, having presented the present situation to youth, it proposes to limit youth's opportunities for solving it. Having made knowledge more necessary to youth than ever, it proposes, with a splendid logic, to reduce the means of knowledge. With one hand it is going to hand on to youth such a load of debt as no generation in history has ever borne and with the other is going to reduce its opportunities of learning how to carry it.

STILL, THERE probably is unconscious method in this particular madness, for the next generation will have to be kept almost idiotic indeed, to accept this arrangement and to pay for the follies of its grandfathers. If it can be kept in sufficient ignorance perhaps it will be willing to bear the full weight of our recent luxury, but I doubt it. What I gather from young men who are just coming of age is all to the contrary. They are filled with ideas which would shock the elder statesmen, but the elder statesmen, the people past middle age, the people whose one idea is to maintain the status quo, never really know what young people are thinking about. Well, while the older generation, or part of it, is determined to make youth just like it or even more ignorant, youth, I fancy, isn't going to stand for this arrangement. If this movement to decrease education and increase ignorance goes much further there is going to be such a reaction from the youngsters as will destroy the old folks' peace of mind and a lot of things much more valuable. Because the young, with regrettable selfishness, can't see why they should have less chance of happiness than the generation ahead of them, merely because the generation ahead of them made a mess of its life and left its bills unpaid.

YET I WOULD say that the movement to weaken and debilitate the younger generation is making some progress in spite of everything. A couple of little Vancouver boys twelve years old were staying at my house the other day, and I had a chance to investigate their play. They recounted in elaborate detail the story of every game they had ever played and took them several hours of continuous speech. I gathered that the boys of to-day are a hardy race, so hardy, indeed, that only the catcher uses a glove. The rest of the team, from long practice, can handle the baseball with bare hands. It almost made me ashamed of myself when I recalled that everyone on our team had a glove of some sort.

YOU CAN imagine, therefore, how I appealed to me to discover the end of this heroic recital that they don't play baseball with a baseball any more. They play it with a lumpy object called a soft ball. Naturally I chided them with this discovery and they were ashamed. They realized that a soft ball wasn't the thing and they said they would much prefer a baseball. They were quite humiliated. But they said the school authorities of Vancouver would not permit real baseball because somebody might get hurt, the mere suggestion of which made them laugh scornfully. All this to my mind, is a lamentable symptom of the times. When small boys are allowed to use a hard baseball because someone might get hurt, what kind of a stock are we going to raise in this country? How can you breed a hard people on soft baseballs? What chance of manhood have the boys got when they are the victims of something still worse, the soft, fat heads of school authorities?

THE OTHER day I told you that if you happened to see a brown horse on the range of Cariboo answering to my name you would know who he was, that he was the colt which we picked up beside his mother and nursed with as much care as if he were a baby. Well, you needn't bother looking for this horse or calling my name at every band of horses you see beside the road. Whether he couldn't endure my name or my departure I don't know, but I have just heard from the big ranch on the top of the hill that he didn't last long after I left there. We carried him into the barn and laid him on a nice bed of straw. We fed him his mother's milk out of a tin cup and he drank it greedily and asked for more in a language which colts speak and horsemen understand.

HE HAD a bright eye, too, and a perfect head, which made his owner say that if he could ever be made to stand up, he would become the finest work horse on the ranch. How we labored to make him stand up, for a colt, mind you, isn't an easy object to handle. It took two of us with all our strength to lift him up, and then he would try gamely to keep his balance, and the expression of despair on his face would almost make you weep when his front legs would crumple up as if there were no bones in them at all. Then down he would go in a tangled heap on the hay. There he would lie gasping and eye us hopelessly as if he knew we were friends, while his big bay mother would watch him anxiously and try to nudge him with his feet with her nose. Sometimes she would whinny as if asking the advice of the other horses in the big stable, and they would whinny back in chorus as if they understood but couldn't do anything about it. This was her ninth colt, but the first who had ever behaved in this fashion.

WE BROUGHT the brown colt through two days. We watched him get stronger and his eye brighter and he could stand up for a second or so before those wretched front legs crumpled up. When I left we were quite confident that he would pull through and I looked forward to seeing him some day, a big brown horse with a fine head and the brand of the big ranch on his left flank. But I have just heard that on the third day he wouldn't take his breakfast out of the cup. He just lay on his bed of hay and looked up at his mother and wouldn't stir when she nudged him with her nose. The next morning he was dead. The mare was still nudging him, trying to make him stand up.

ORA PRO NOBIS

To the Editor:—I note that public prayer meetings are being called on behalf of the Economic Conference.

So far, I have seen nothing in the news from Ottawa indicating already that the conference, has got itself into such a hot spot that it needs praying for.

Give the conference a chance. It does not need any prayers, yet, in fact, it needs less praying for than the government of British Columbia. In any event the failure of this conference to do anything of unusual importance will have no more significance than the long procession of failures of most of the other conferences. Let the churches pray for "daily bread" for the unemployed, particularly for the families of the unemployed. Against that dark background the Economic Conference is merely a display of fireworks.

PIOUS.

PRAYER FOR THE CONFERENCE

To the Editor:—An earnest desire has been expressed by many Christians with various denominations in this city to have a public prayer meeting should be held, with the object of waiting upon God, on behalf of present world conditions, and especially for the Economic Conference now meeting in Ottawa.

It has therefore been arranged to hold such a service on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the Central Baptist Church, Fort Street, Vancouver. Kindly place at our disposal by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Rowell, and his colleagues, for this purpose.

The prayer meeting is open to all, and it is hoped that as many as possible will take this opportunity to unite their voices in one common cause—to seek Divine help and guidance for the great and great empire, and especially for those representatives attending the Economic Conference at Ottawa.

The whole world is looking on, awaiting the outcome of this conference. We suggest then, as Christians, we do our part to uphold the hands of those who have had placed upon them the tremendous responsibilities of guiding the destiny of our commerce, finances, etc.

The Word of God instructs us that the poverty that be, are ordained of God (Rom. xiii 1). The same Word also exhorts us to pray for them (Tim. ii 2). Shall we not do so?

H. L. HOPKINS.

A RECIPE

To the Editor:—Most of us are acquainted with the story of the man who wanted to believe he was ill because his friends said he was not looking well.

Our present state of depression is being grossly aggravated by the same idiotic hypothesis. The following prescription might help to remove this stupid introspection:

Let all the Service Clubs across Canada stage on the 25th of July, a junction with the Ottawa conference, a national celebration along the lines of "The Depression Is Over—Let's Celebrate." Let the celebration be a day of giving. Let the celebration be a day of giving. Let the celebration be a day of giving.

You who are enjoying a regular government salary, cut out the morning about your 10 per cent reduction and tell the world about the 25 per cent reduction in the cost of living, and slap the other fellow on the back and tell him you are 15 per cent to the good and give thanks to the powers that be that a top-heavy system is keeping you where you are.

You banking institutions cut out your usury and charge a normal rate of interest; you know a business cannot be successful above 7 per cent interest. Let the real estate fraternity make an honest-to-goodness stand to stabilize the property values, and make it possible to the city's assessed value.

You whose greatest concern in life is to arrange tea parties, cease repeating to your dear friends that you must be awful to have nothing, and try to realize that you, too, are a pauper, but for another's sacrifice.

You politicians, stop your sincerity by demanding that the government keep the interest rates on their borrowing to never more than 4 per cent and damn any man who asks for more. Let the manufacturer get the selling price of the article nearer to the cost of production and stop this demoralizing depreciation in value.

Let the government put the pari-mutuel system in all the stock exchanges.

To those who are still getting their usual wage, or near it, still grumbling because the bargains you are getting are not twice as good as you expected. Remember this unreasonable bargaining has put many out of employment; it may put many out of a job.

JOE LAMB GOES TO BOSTON CLUB

Boston, July 25.—The Boston Bruins Hockey Club management to-day announced the purchase of Joe Lamb, right wing, of the disbanded Ottawa Senators, for a substantial cash consideration and a player to be named later.

Lamb, who is twenty-five years old, has been in major league hockey for five seasons was with the New York Americans last year, when Ottawa temporarily withdrew from the league.

MARY FRIZZELL TO BE STARTER

Vancouver Girl Will Represent Canada in 100 Metres at Olympic Games

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Aboard Olympic Special Train Bound for Los Angeles)

Winslow, Ariz., July 24.—Sturdy young Mary Frizzell, Vancouver, whose form two weeks ago at the girls' Olympic trials was so mediocre she was only picked for the Los Angeles team on the understanding her expenses would be defrayed privately, stands as Canada's second best bet to win the Olympic 100 metres.

It was learned yesterday Miss Frizzell, along with Hilda Strike, Montreal, and Mary Vandervelt, New Lisland, Ont., would start in the only sprint event for women. Three entries from each country are allowed.

Running brilliantly in training the brown-haired, sturdy girl from British Columbia has so impressed Olympic officials they will start her in the century instead of Lillian Palmer, also of Vancouver, who finished second in Miss Strike at the trials. Miss Palmer, Mildred Frizzell, Toronto, and Miss Strike and Miss Frizzell will make up the 400-metre relay team.

Tillicums Meet Elks To-night

Needing a victory to put them back into a tie for second place with the Sons of Canada, the Elks will meet the Tillicums in the Senior Amateur Baseball League game to-night at the Royal Athletic Park. The teams will start play at 6:15 o'clock. Lloyd Jones, or Jim Kennedy will pitch for the Elks, while Musgrave is expected to start for the Tillicums.

Keen Tennis Tournament Played at Riverside Inn

Lake Cowichan, July 25.—A most successful tennis tournament was brought to a finish last week on the Riverside Inn new tennis courts. Large galleries witnessed the games between Lake Cowichan and Youbou, the former winning a majority of the games both singles and doubles. A tea was given by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thomas, who were complimented on the excellence of the courts which promise to be the scene of many keen games in the enthusiastic tennis district.

MAN KILLED BY POLICE

Portland, Ore., July 25.—Henry B. met, wanted in Yakima, Wash., selling a stolen automobile, was shot to death in a battle with police yesterday evening. Detectives nounced to-day. They said identification had been made by the widow. His companion, who escaped after one policeman had been wounded, believed to be Frank Morris, ex-convict from Walla Walla prison.

FIRE LOSS IS LOW THIS YEAR

Less Than Half as Many Outbreaks Than For Same Period in 1931

Effect of the timely rains throughout the province on the forest fire less is clearly shown in the regular weekly report of the forestry branch of the Department of Lands. Up to Saturday there had been 540 fires reported to the branch during the season, as against 1,255 in the same period last year and 929 in 1930. The damage from the outbreaks reported has been held to a minimum, the only serious loss being in a small area between Prince George and Smithers, B.C.

The hazard through lightning has been small, the department reports, and rains have come at an opportune time when forests were dry and serious outbreaks were feared.

Three of the six forest districts are reported relatively safe this week with showers and cool weather prevailing. In the others conditions are drier, but the hazard is not great.

Empire Spokesmen Numbered Among Churchgoers Yesterday in Ottawa

Ottawa, July 25.—From the Atlantic to the Pacific prayers rose yesterday for the success of the Imperial Economic Conference. In small backwoods churches and vast urban cathedrals, Canadians joined in seeking divine guidance for those sitting around the empire council table.

The keynote of the day of prayer was sounded here by Most Rev. Clare L. Worrell, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Anglican Primate of Canada. To a congregation that packed St. Matthew's Church and included the Governor-General and Countess Beasborough, he counselled that the British Empire must not be pictured as "standing alone and living in splendid isolation."

IRISH ATTEND MASS

Sean T. O'Kelly, head of the Irish Free State delegation, and many of his associates were among the throng at the Basilica for the pontifical high mass celebrated by Monsignor Andrea Casulo, Apostolic Delegate to Canada. St. Rev. Felix Couturier, Bishop of Alexandria, Ont., preached the sermon, pleading for the domination of Christian principles in the conference deliberations.

"Let us ask ourselves, are human affairs limited only to the buying and selling of goods?" Bishop Couturier urged. "What of honesty and truth? What of confidence and trust?"

Special services were held in all Roman Catholic churches.

Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, gave similar advice to many delegates who attended Knox Presbyterian Church. "God forbid," he said, "that the British Empire should ever have a fence thrown around it to create an exclusiveness alien to the heart of our holy religion."

The world needed a foundation on which a structure may be built that will endure the ravages of time and change, said Dr. Johnston, elaborating on his text, "If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do?"

LEADING DELEGATES ATTEND

Attending the Anglican service were Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, Viscount and Lady Hailsham, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates.

At the Presbyterian service were Sir John Gilmour of Great Britain, Hon. N. C. Havenga, Hon. A. F. J. Poirie and Hon. P. G. W. Grobler of South Africa; Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Hon. Hugh Guthrie and Hon. Murray MacLaren.

A special prayer for the Imperial Economic Conference was recited at St. Matthew's. It was as follows: "Almighty God, who hast given to our sovereign lord King George an empire whose dominion is over divers languages and customs, we pray Thee give Thy grace to those who have assembled in conference to consider the empire's common interests that, by working together in true fellowship and peace, we may establish within its borders, and the welfare of all mankind preserved."

CLOTHES MAY NEVER MAKE THE MAN BUT HOW ABOUT THE MOVIE ACTOR?

By ROBERT GRANDON.

LILLIAN BOND remakes her hats.

TOM MIX wears all white—tuxedo—hat—gloves.

and characters running in similar mold, people of the studios express their individuality in dress. Will Rogers never has owned a dress suit. Those he wears in his pictures are furnished by the studio, and off-stage you can't pour him into one.

Another of our cowboy class, Ken Maynard himself, has his shoes made to order with extremely thin soles.

Roland Young runs wild on shirts and ties. He has them made from the same material. Maurice (Columbia) Chevalier wears knitted shirts of French blue wool with an elder-down wool necktie of baby blanket material. Russian czar, the old German army overcoat he wore in "All Quiet Along the Western Front."

He sports it everywhere, even when he goes to call on his current sweetie.

Nell Hamilton loafs about in old clothes off the set and always looks like the wreck of the Hesperus.

Jack Oakie and his sweat shirt require no comment. The shirt, speaks for itself. Donald Cook wears both suspenders and belt. He says it gives him a feeling of greater security.

Walter Byron never buys a hat until he looks at the lining. White or blue, or Walter's through.

Speaking of hats, bill (Smart Alec) Haines runs around with the smallest beret in Hollywood perched over one ear. What keeps it on is a mystery.

Lillian (Alluring Bond) has an odd penchant. Once she gets a hat home, she yanks it to bits and makes it over, no matter what it cost her. Sally Eilers, on the other hand, runs about hatless with a ribbon in her hair.

At that, this individuality in clothes may be just another expression to attract attention. Freud, you may recall, holds that all actors are exhibitionists.

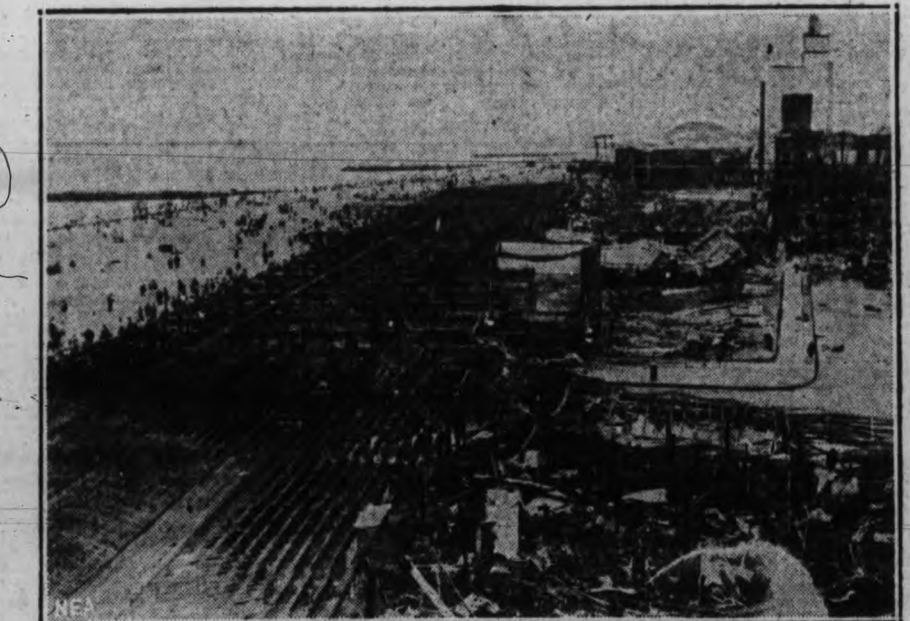

If you are entertaining if not serve some of Hollywood's favorite dishes? Robert Grandon will send you an illustrated leaflet, "Favorite Recipes of Famous Stars" containing these recipes if you will send 3 cents in stamps and self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CONEY ISLAND'S BIGGEST SPECTACLE

The fire-blackened framework of Coney Island's famous boardwalk and the charred ruins of adjacent buildings are shown in this graphic photo taken after wind-driven flames had lapped up waterfront property valued at $5,000,000. The blaze had hardly been quenched when thousands of New Yorkers returned to the beach (as seen at the left) to escape the city's midsummer heat. Hundreds were left homeless by the spectacular fire that ravaged four square blocks.

HUGE PICNIC OF EMPLOYEES

4,000 Attend Trail Smelting Company's Outing at Nelson

Nelson, B.C., July 25.—One of the largest events of its kind probably in the Dominion of Canada, the annual picnic of the employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Trail, together with their families, was held in Nelson on Saturday. Three engines and about thirty-two passenger coaches were necessary to transfer the 3,000 Trailites to Nelson for the event. In addition about 1,000 came by auto and these were added to by additional visitors from all over the district. The whole affair was run off without a hitch and not an accident marred the day.

In addition to the picnic the annual regatta of the Kootenay Launch Club occurred when L. P. Gilbert and his speed boat, Lady Bird, recaptured the Patenaudd shield, emblematic of the lake speed championship. Joe Pedicord of Spokane, holder of the shield, and Lawrence Byrds of Spokane, Wash., were opponents in this competition.

But ill luck dogged Mr. Pedicord, who could not get his fast speed boat working. Rytel, while running a Nelson boat. Several Spokane speedsters and a couple from Kaslo contested the outboard event.

Sunday saw another interesting event at Salmo, twenty-six miles from Nelson, when the Canadian Legion, Nelson branch, and American Post Legion from Washington and Idaho gathered in a monster international picnic. Close to 500 attended the day's festivities.

Envoy to Canada

Because of the importance of the British Imperial Conference in Ottawa, the State Department at Washington has appointed Pierre de L. Beal, above, now chief of the western European division, as first secretary of the U.S. legation at the Dominion capital. Officials explained they wanted to have an experienced man to take charge of the Ottawa legation during the absence of Minister Harford MacVicar. MacVicar has not resigned, but it is reported he does not plan to remain in Ottawa indefinitely.

LOCAL WOMAN
CALLED TO RESTMrs. F. L. Stewart Succumbs
to Injury Sustained in Vancouver Fall

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 23.—Mrs. Frances L. Stewart, aged eighty-eight, a resident of Victoria for twenty-two years, who came on a visit to Vancouver two months ago, died this morning. A month ago she suffered a broken hip as the result of a fall. She was removed from the General Hospital to a private nursing home where death took place.

The deceased, who was born at Niagara, Ont., was the wife of the late George A. Stewart, C.E., D.L.F., first superintendent of the Banff National Park. She was a descendant of the United Empire Loyalists.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. W. Foster of Belmont Avenue, Mrs. G. H. F. Edwards and Mrs. D. T. Forbes of Victoria, and three step-children, Mrs. Arthur Denison, W. F. Stewart and Prof. L. B. Stewart of Toronto.

SISTER
KITCHENHINTS ON COOKING SWEET CORN
BY SISTER MARY

Although sweet corn is not as rich in mineral salts and vitamins as some of the other summer vegetables, it does supply bulk and carbohydrates in abundance and the yellow varieties contribute some vitamin A. However, sweet corn is universally popular, and since the markets are full of other vegetables which furnish a generous supply of mineral constituents and vitamins, why not enjoy the short season of corn-on-the-cob to our hearts' content?

This is perhaps the only mild flavored vegetable that modern cooks advise boiling in water to cover. Since we have discovered how much better vegetables are if cooked in a minimum of water, very few cooks use the old method and boil vegetables in quantities of water which must be drained off before serving. However, the tenderness, color and flavor of sweet corn is harmed by steaming or waterless cooking. Consequently, in order to serve it at its best it is completely immersed in actively boiling water.

When you go to market for sweet corn, there are a few points to keep in mind. Corn loses its natural sweetness very soon after gathering, so avoid wilted, yellowed-looking husks. Do not buy corn that has been husked. The husks help to preserve the flavor of the kernels and keep them from becoming hard and dry.

Nearly every year a new variety of sweet corn appears on the market, but the Evergreen, Country Gentleman and Golden Bantam varieties are always good. The evergreen corn is large with deep white kernels and has a long season, remaining sweet and tender until almost ripe. Golden Bantam is a yellow corn with small ears and wide, juicy kernels, very sweet and tender. The Country Gentleman is a late variety with small ears and deep white kernels.

CORN CHOWDER
Two cups corn cut from cob, one slice salt pork, two small onions, four medium-sized potatoes, two medium-sized tomatoes, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one cup water, two cups milk, two teaspoons butter and two teaspoons flour.

Cut pork in small dice and try out fat in soup-kettle. Add onions peeled in dice, tomatoes peeled and sliced and minced, potatoes pared and cut salt and pepper. Add water and simmer for twenty minutes. Add corn and cook ten minutes longer. Add flour and stir into mixture. Cook and stir until smooth. Add milk and bring quickly to the boiling point, but do not let boil. Serve with toasted crackers.

TO-MORROW'S MEAL
Breakfast: Chilled tomato juice, cereal, cream, creamed fish, corn waffles, milk, coffee.
Luncheon: Corn chowder, lettuce salad, corn-on-the-cob, spinach and egg salad, berry poppy-seed cake, sandwiches, filled cookies, grapejuice.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, JULY 26, 1932

According to astrology this is an important day in planetary direction, a time to pursue routine business and stick to well-beaten paths.

It is a favorable day for seeking employment, although those who pay salaries may be exceedingly exacting.

Men who exercise authority may be inclined to be arbitrary and irritable while this away continues. Stenographers and clerks should be exceedingly careful to give clever aid in office work.

There is a good sign to-day for sports and athletics. Considerers for prize should benefit through the stimulating planetary influences, astrologers announce.

This is a day in which the stars appear to be partial to men. There is an adverse sign for women, who should engage in recreation and amusements in which they are independent of men.

Theaters are under a sway that is promising for the future, but they may have dull times until the end of August, according to a reading of the stars.

Political issues are subject to a configuration in which the planetary influences are marked by conflicting aspects. Party feuds are indicated.

The stars presage many reforms in municipal affairs east and west. The power of gangsters is to be broken in many cities.

Orchardists come under a rule that should be advantageous. Crops of fruit should be abundant and should command better prices than formerly, astrologers forecast.

Changes in the manner of cultivating the land are again prophesied. Scientific methods will be more and more prevalent, it is forecast.

Farmers are to become business men of the most modern type and will regain their old-time prosperity, the stars presage.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good fortune. The young may have small worries regarding live affairs.

Children born on this day probably will be many-sided in their interests and attainments. The subjects of this sign usually win in whatever they choose.

George Clinton, statesman, was born on this day, 1729. Others who have celebrated it as birthday include George Catlin, 1796; artist, G. B. Cortelyou, 1863; secretary to President Roosevelt, and George Bernard Shaw, 1866, Irish dramatist and critic.

Your Baby
and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SCHEDULE DOES NOT DEMAND
CHANGES EVERY FIVE MINUTES

Perhaps I preach so much about the need for change in the child's routine and diet that mothers get the idea a change is due every five minutes. Such is not my intention. I do think mothers very often are blind to the need for changes, unwilling to admit that the child cannot sleep as much, does need a larger variety of foods, or needs weaning or something of the sort. Their troubles arise because they plod along, sticking to the schedules they have laboriously established and viewing any deviation with fear.

NO DRASTIC CHANGE

On the contrary, there is no great change in the average child's diet from seven to twelve months, provided he has been introduced to all the additional foods previous to that time. At two to three months the baby has orange juice and cod liver oil, the latter in winter, not in summer. At four to five months he has cereal. At five to six months or thereabouts he gets sieved vegetables, and at seven months egg yolk. Thus we have the full list of foods essential the first year. They are not "baby" foods, but gradually increasing quantities up to that age.

Mrs. A. V. is expecting such changes for she asks, "Is a baby's diet the same from ten months to a year? Please tell me what a baby of eleven months old should eat in a day."

AN OUTLINE

Here is the day's outline of feeding. I am assuming that the baby was entirely weaned by ten months, is taking one quart of milk daily in four eight-ounce feedings, and that part of each feeding is given by cup. These steps prepare for the change from bottle to cup that is completed by one year.

Six a.m., bottle of milk; 9 a.m., juice of an orange; 10 a.m., cereal, preferably fine wheat preparations, and a bottle of milk; 2 p.m., yolk of one soft or hard cooked egg, sieved vegetable, all or part of the bottle feeding; 6 p.m., same as at 10 a.m.

NO NIGHT FEEDINGS

If the baby is weaned and gets his due allotment of milk, there should be no necessity for night feeding at eleven months. Many well-fed babies of three or four months sleep all night. By eleven months this very good habit should be well established. Sometimes the baby who needs weaning wakes up many times at night, demanding to be fed. That wakefulness ends as soon as his mother accepts the inevitable and makes the change from breast to bottle.

The feeding leaflet called, "Feeding from Two to Twelve Months," offers a schedule for the ten months old baby, and another for the twelve-months old one. This should be sufficient to assure mothers that there is no special change at eleven months or it would have been so indicated. This leaflet may be obtained by any reader who will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request to me in care of this newspaper.

Salvationist's Wife
Dies in Toronto

Canadian Press
Toronto, July 25.—Mrs. John Bond, wife of Col. John Bond of the Salvation Army, died suddenly of a heart attack Saturday at Penelon Falls, Ont., where she was on vacation.

Mrs. Bond, whose husband has been chief editor of Salvation Army publications for thirty years, had served as a Salvation Army worker in South Africa, Great Britain, United States and Canada. For the last five years she had been stationed in Toronto.

Child Beggars Appear on City Streets
It was 10 o'clock at night when the doorbell rang.

Four small girls stood on the porch. One asked in a thin little treble voice for some money to buy bread.

"Well, well, you are out pretty late," I commented, following my daughter to the door. "Are you all of the same family?"

"No, ma'am."
"Are you all hungry?"
"Yes, ma'am."

"That's too bad! I have a little change—let me see, I can give each of you a dime; will that help?"
It seemed that it would. They were almost as much excited as though I had said I would give each of them a dollar. But that was impossible. Six or more mendicants had been to our house that day and each had received a "little something." One man from Altoona had gotten (along with a suit of clothes, shirts, shoes, socks and a dollar), a box of new corn plasters I had just purchased for myself. A new pair of white shoes were pinching—but never mind; the man got the plasters because his poor feet were "just killing him, he had walked so far."

By ten that night a dime apiece was the best I could do for these children. "Can I go to the bathroom?" asked one.

"Certainly." They all came in and I directed the needy upstairs. They were very happy. They did not look starving and they were reasonably well-dressed.

One bounced up and down on my lone seat in the hall. It wasn't the action of a child downcast by either hunger or trouble.

Questions as to identity produced vague answers and yet they were old enough to have told straight stories. "You had better go straight home,"

I advised them. "It is too late for you to be out alone like this."

A week or so later, and at a still later hour, half past eleven, my husband and I were walking home from the bus. We were about half way when I saw six little girls on the curb on a lonely street.

One came up and whined, "Please give me a nickel for a loaf of bread," acted as spokesman before.

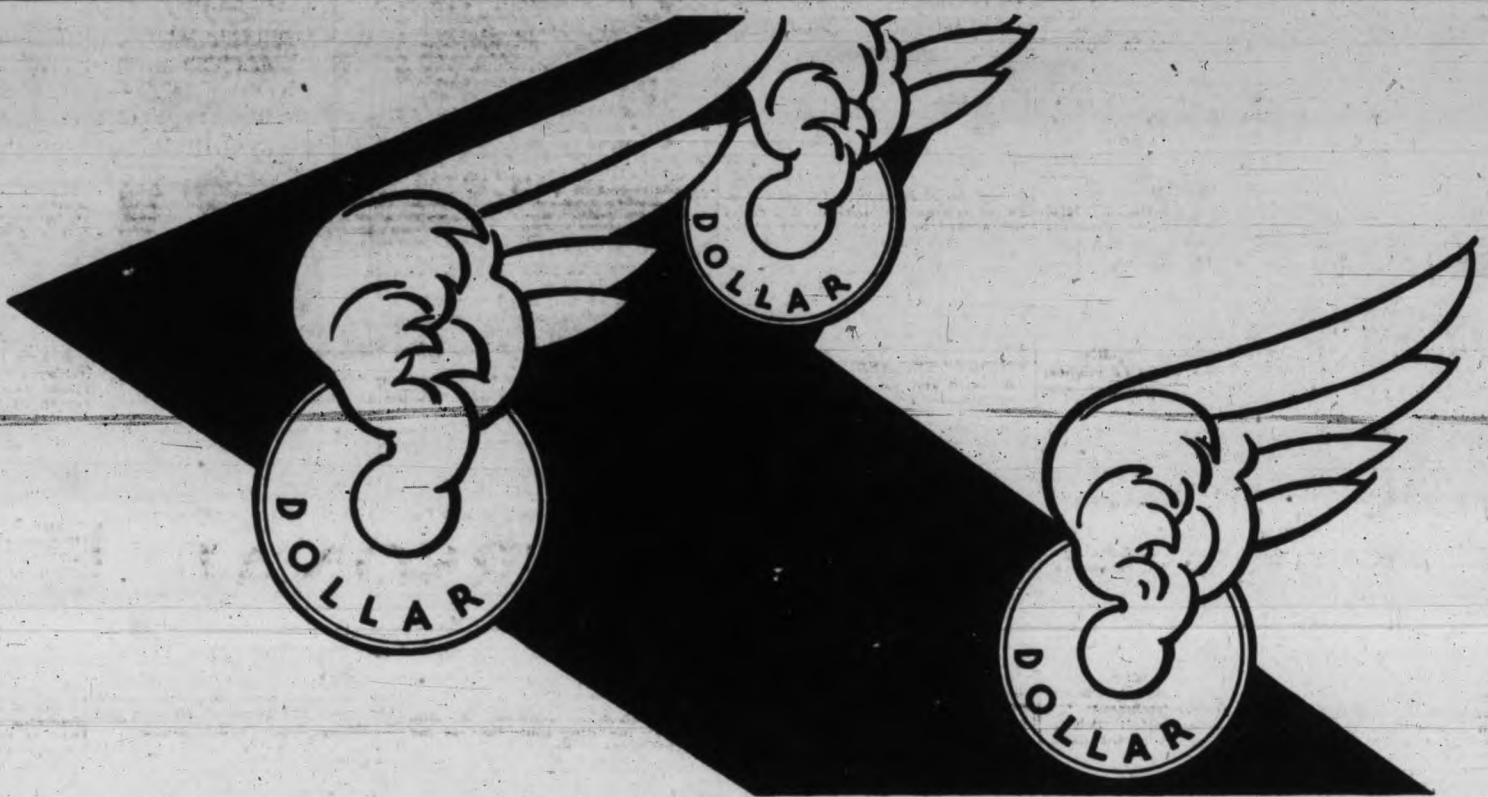

"Tell me who you are and I shall try to look up your parents to-morrow," I said.

She walked away. Then we heard a titter. "Ha, ha, ha!" went one. "You girls go right home," advised my husband. "You mustn't be out here like this."

So many children come to our door late at night, either selling or begging. Poor forlorn little souls! Who sends them? Are they really in need? Or are they working a racket for some older person? I won't let myself believe that, but it is possible. And why the late hours?

It is terrible. If this begging by children exists in our city it must be the same elsewhere. It should be looked into. Almost anything may happen to these small prowlers of the night.

Uncle Wiggily's Lemonade

(By HOWARD E. GARIS)

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, hopped over to where Uncle Wiggily was sitting in an easy chair near the front window of his hollow stump bungalow. Mr. Longears was twinkling his pink nose.

"What is it, Baby Bunty?" he inquired, for he knew she was going to ask him a question, but wanted to wait until the twinkling had stopped.

"Have you a penny?" Uncle Wiggily asked the little orphan.

"Why, yes, I have a penny," was the answer. "What about it?"

"May I please see it?" asked Bunty, sort of standing on one leg and lifting the other up and down like a lollypop stick.

"Why, yes, here is a penny," said Uncle Wiggily, taking the copper coin from his pocket and holding it out in his paw for Bunty to see.

"Oh, yes, that is a penny," murmured the little orphan bunny as she carefully looked at it without touching it.

"What did you think it was?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a laugh.

"Well," said Baby Bunty slowly, as she tried to twinkle her pink nose. "It's been so long since I've seen a penny of my own that I sort of forgot what they look like. Yes, that's a

"I'll sell lemonade," Bunty went on with a sort of a sigh. "I'd almost forgotten," she ended in a low voice.

"Look here, Baby Bunty!" suddenly exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, "do you, by any chance, happen to want a penny?"

"Why, yes, I'd like one," answered the little orphan rabbit. "But I don't want to take yours. You had better put it back in your pocket," she said. "It sort of makes me feel funny to look at it."

"Here! Take this! It's yours!" said Mr. Longears, quickly.

"Mine!" exclaimed Bunty, in surprise.

"Yes, I give it to you," went on the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, that's different!" spoke Bunty with a laugh. "Thanks a lot! I'm so glad!" and she held the copper penny tightly in her small paw.

"But you must do one thing for that penny, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily.

"What?" she asked.

"You must tell me what your are going to do with it," went on the rabbit gentleman. "I never give pennies unless I know what they are to be used for."

"I'm going to buy a lemon," said Bunty.

"A lemon?" chuckled Mr. Longears. "That's a strange thing for you to buy with a penny. A lemon! What for?"

"Jingle, jangle, buster, custer and I and some of the other children are going to make lemonade and sell it in the shade," explained Bunty. "Nurse Jane gave us the sugar and water and pitcher and glasses, and all that, and a dipper to dish out the lemonade. But she had no lemons, so we had to buy them. Everybody else had a penny to help buy lemons, but I didn't have any. So I thought I'd ask you how a penny looked and then I'd know it again if I happened to find one."

"My! What a long talk!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Well, you have your penny, Bunty, and now hop along to buy your lemon. But what's the idea about this lemonade, anyhow?"

"Well, you see it is a very hot day," said the little orphan rabbit. "If we set up a stand in the shade and have a cool pail of lemonade to sell to the animal ladies and men when they go past, we children can make a lot of money."

"Oh, I see!" said Uncle Wiggily. "And what will you do with all the money you make from selling cool lemonade in the shade?"

"We make more lemonade and sell that," said Bunty.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I guess that's a good way to get rich,

CHAPTER XXVI

The single lamp was still burning in the big room. Cherry hurried to the bedside. She was clutching a robe about her.

"I'm here, mother," she said eagerly. "You wanted me?"

The woman on the pillow raised her eyes. They were brown eyes, so much like Cherry's. They looked dark now against the pale face.

"My little girl," Mrs. Dixon said gently. "Cherry—come here beside me."

The girl knelt at the side of the bed. "What is it, mother?" she asked. "I'll do anything."

The sick woman smiled. She raised one slim hand to touch the girl's hair. "Cherry," she went on slowly, "I'm so glad you've come back. You mustn't misjudge your father, dear. I want to know you're going to be—friends."

"Of course I don't misjudge him, mother. I know how he feels. But everything's going to be all right now. He said so!"

For an instant happiness seemed to light the pallid cheeks. "He said—that," she repeated. "Oh, I'm so glad!"

The words seemed to take the woman's last bit of strength. Her eyes closed almost instantly in sleep. She had been clinging to Cherry's hand, but now the fingers loosened. The rise and fall of her breathing came regularly.

Cherry knelt there for a long while. Mrs. Dixon slept as peacefully as a child. Presently the nurse put a hand on the girl's arm and motioned for her to rise. Cherry realized for the first time that she had slipped down from her shoulder.

She went down the corridor to her own room and got into bed. Within five minutes she was asleep. Despite Dr. Knowles's cheerful predictions three days passed before he gave the definite word that Mrs. Dixon had passed the crisis in her illness. Little by little her strength returned. There were times during those three days when the doctor's calls stretched out over several hours. There were times of anxiety for everyone in the house. Walter Dixon did not go to his office. He remained in his own room or downstairs in the study. Cherry and her father met for meals that were almost silent, the food set before them and taken away scarcely tasted. Father and daughter waited nervously outside the door of the upstairs bedroom for the brief bulletins the nurse could bring.

Each day Cherry telephoned to an. She stayed on at her parent's home, making one hasty trip to the apartment for clothing. Pinkie, the kitten, had been quarantined upstairs with Dixie Shannon. A glow of warm tenderness, of eagerness enveloped her. For days Cherry's thoughts had been selfish, concerned only with others. She felt suddenly a great need for Dan's strength and love. It was the same road over which she had traveled a week before when Martin's driving had seemed so slow. Now, for exactly opposite reasons, the car seemed to be lagging.

Cherry stopped when her purse and drew out a vanity case. She surveyed herself in the mirror, added another touch of lipstick and then rubbed away most of it. She was wishing that she had started earlier and had time to stop at Louise's shop for a facial treatment. Cherry had never had such a treatment but Dixie Shannon had assured her that Dixie was marvelous for removing tired lines and wrinkles.

Suddenly Cherry smiled again. Facial treatments—the ideal! She must remember that she was a poor man's wife now. No more hairdressing service for her in bed. No more turning to Sarah or Martha for everything she wanted done.

"And I'm glad of it!" Cherry told herself earnestly. "It's going to be good to be home. Oh, it's going to be wonderful!"

She thought that she meant it. Martin let her out of the car before the library steps. It was the place where Cherry and Dan had met so often in the days when they were living at the hotel. The chauffeur closed the door after her, touched his cap and drove away.

Dan was nowhere in sight but Cherry was not disturbed. She had learned to expect him to be late. A boy in knee trousers was selling flowers from a basket further down the street. Cherry stopped to buy a bouquet of red and white roses, selected a red rose to fasten to her blouse and gave him a quarter for it.

"Here's your change, lady," the boy began as Cherry moved away.

She smiled, told him to keep the coin. Office workers, late at their posts, were hurrying along the streets. Many of the girls were dressed in linens and thin cottons.

"Why, it's summer!" Cherry thought in surprise. Sure enough it must be. Cherry had not the slightest idea what the day of the month was. To satisfy herself she bought a newspaper, saw that it was the twentieth. The twentieth of June.

The headlines were not interesting. A clash over local politics. Smugglers arrested in San Francisco. A woman demanding a divorce because of lipstick on her husband's shirt.

There was no story on page one signed "By Daniel Phillips." Cherry scanned the columns wondering which he had written. It missed her with a pride to see Dan's name in type. Somehow it seemed to look bigger than the other by-lines. Cherry had told him once and Dan had laughed at her.

"I wonder what's keeping him," the girl thought, restlessly. There was a big clock in the window of a jewelry store across the street. Its hands pointed to a quarter to six.

She scanned the street in both directions. There was no Dan in sight.

"If he doesn't come in five minutes," she decided. "I'd better call the office. Of course, if anything's happened he knows he has no way to reach me." Deliberately Cherry turned her back on the clock. She watched the boy with the flowers sell a bouquet to a slim, stoop-shouldered man with white hair. No other customers came to buy. The boy looked up and down the street and then moved away.

Cherry swung around. No Dan was not in sight yet. Then she saw him. He was crossing the street, coming toward her and at his side was a girl in white. She wore a white hat and white shoes. Her head was thrown back and she was looking up at Dan and laughing.

Jealousy, white hot and scorching, flamed up in Cherry's heart. Who was this girl and what right had she to be laughing like that and swinging along beside Dan's arm?

Sudden and unreasoning anger Cherry repeated this other girl.

CHAPTER XXVII

Dan and the girl in white were almost

she continued to recuperate at the present rate she might get out of bed and sit in a chair for a few minutes on Sunday.

Eight days had passed since Cherry had seen her husband. She felt it was time for her to return to the apartment, yet she hesitated to suggest it. She still felt the sense of guilt that her departure had caused her mother's breakdown.

It was Mrs. Dixon herself who solved the problem. Cherry was sitting with her, relieving the day nurse who had gone out for fresh air. Cherry thoughtfully, "Isn't it time you were going home?"

"Why, mother—"

"Your father and I were talking about it last night," Mrs. Dixon went on. "We've been glad to have you here, of course. It's meant everything to me. You see I felt I'd lost my daughter and I knew that underneath, Walter's bitterness he was suffering just as I was. This illness—well, I don't really mind it since it's brought you back to us."

"I should never have gone away!" Cherry said fervently. "It was wrong of me, but, oh, mother, I've paid for it!"

"But you love your husband, don't you?"

"Of course I do. But I should have made father understand. I shouldn't have lost my temper—"

"We can't undo the past," Mrs. Dixon said quietly. "It's the future we must think about. Your father and I agree that if you love this young man you should go back to your home. That's your duty now, Cherry."

"And I can come to see you? And I'll come to see you. Yes, when I'm able I'll come to see you. I'm anxious to know your father—"

Cherry's eyes sparkled that afternoon. She telephoned Dan and agreed to meet him at 5:30. Martin drove her down town in the big car. It was arranged that he was to call for Cherry each afternoon and take her to her parents' home for an hour or two.

Cherry leaned back against the thick upholstery and smiled at the limousine rolled along. She was tired yet very happy. The past week had been a tremendous strain but out of so much suffering the world seemed to be righting itself. Her mother was on the road to recovery. Her father for the first time seemed to have lost his intimidating pose. Walter Dixon had found something he could not bulldoze and terrify. Both of her parents were at her beck and call.

"Poor Dan," the girl thought. "I wonder how he's been managing about meals and clean shirts and if he's been at work on time. The apartment must be a sight!"

A glow of warm tenderness, of eagerness enveloped her. For days Cherry's thoughts had been selfish, concerned only with others. She felt suddenly a great need for Dan's strength and love. It was the same road over which she had traveled a week before when Martin's driving had seemed so slow. Now, for exactly opposite reasons, the car seemed to be lagging.

BENEFITS OF EXERCISE

Stimulation of Chemistry of Body Important Result of Activity

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

While the fall and winter seasons are devoted primarily to sports of high speed and extreme muscular effort, such as football, skating, skiing and basketball, track athletics and swimming, place special burdens on the muscular and nervous systems because of their demands on the heat regulating mechanism of the body. In a consideration of the desirability of various forms of exercise, Dr. Jesse P. Williams points out that there are five definite values that are to be sought.

First, there is increase in the circulation of the blood, which carries food to the tissues, removes waste, equalizes the water and heat content of the body, and aids the distribution of the materials derived from the glands of internal secretion.

Second, increased ventilation of the lungs takes place, which also provides more oxygen to the blood and aids in the eliminating of carbon dioxide.

Third, the activity increases the elimination of waste materials through the kidneys, the lungs, the intestines, and to some extent of the skin. Associated with the increased activity of the muscles and with the enhancing of the circulation of the blood comes a general stepping up of the chemical activities that go on in the body.

As a result, the fourth group of beneficial effects are improvement in digestion and assimilation of nutritive materials.

The fifth benefit is the special exercise given to the nervous system resulting in better tone, an increase in the circulation of the blood, and also special stimulation of the nervous mechanism associated with increased action. These effects are derived primarily from increase in the force and rate of the heart, of the breathing, and of the elimination of the secretion of the material by the skin.

As a result, it is possible through exercise to make a complete change in the liquid materials of the body, to remove old accumulation of waste, and releasing energy for motive power. There seems to be no doubt that exercise stimulates growth, particularly of the muscles, and perhaps through stimulation of the chemistry of the body growth, also of the bones.

Exercise is related, moreover, to improved functioning not only of the organs within the abdomen, such as the heart and the liver, but also of the brain.

It should be remembered, however, that exercise should be suited to age and physical condition and must never be continued to the point of exhaustion.

ELISSA LANDI PLAYING HERE

Capitol Theatre Stars Beautiful Actress in "The Woman in Room 13"

An ex-husband's cruel thirst for revenge constitutes the dramatic conflict of "The Woman in Room 13," Elissa Landi's latest Fox emotional drama based on the aftermath of a divorce scandal, which opens to-day at the Capitol Theatre.

As a brilliant, capable, modern wife or to-day, Miss Landi is pictured as a woman who holds the happiness of true love above the price her scheming ex-husband is willing to pay for revenge and glory. The husband, portrayed by Ralph Bellamy, loses every claim upon her when he openly parades one of his many mistresses before her friends. This, to her, is cause enough for her divorce proceedings, even though they come at a critical time in the campaign through which Bellamy hopes to become mayor. She gains her freedom, but earns the undying enmity of Bellamy.

Happy in a new marriage with Neil Hamilton, Landi becomes forgetful of the past until Bellamy cunningly gathers together various threads of her new life as evidence to be used against her in a court of law. He succeeds in aligning her new father-in-law against her, and even in convincing her trusting husband that her relations with Gilbert Roland, who portrays an opera singer, are not as she pretends them to be.

The gigantic setting for these scenes was erected "on the lot" at Universal City, California. In these scenes appeared all the principal players of "The Boudoir Diplomat," including Betty Compson, Ian Keith, Mary Duncan, Jeanette Loff, Lawrence Grant, Lionel Belmore and Andre Beranger.

"My Sin" opens at the Playhouse Theatre with Tallulah Bankhead and Frederic March and a supporting cast of exceptional talent.

All the world knows of the astonishing success of Tallulah Bankhead on the open stage, particularly in London, where for eight years she became a veritable craze with English devotees of the theatre. And the Londoner knows his dramatics. They are all schooled in the art of "make believe." They spot talent instantly and never fail to award merit a generous accolade. And when talent is buttressed by beauty, then all London becomes enamored to the new queen of the drama. This was Tallulah's setting for eight years.

When Miss Bankhead returned to her native land, Paramount immediately secured her for the stellar role in "Fanny Hill," in which she secured an unquestioned victory as a screen star of extraordinary brilliance.

GOV.-GENERAL GIVES DINNER

Delegates to Conference Entertained at Rideau Hall Saturday Evening

Ottawa, July 25.—Rideau Hall, the official residence of Canada's Governor-General, was the scene on Saturday of a brilliant dinner party given by His Excellency the Governor-General and Countess Bessborough, in honor of the visiting delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference. The guests numbered ninety-five.

His Excellency was a gracious host, wearing an exquisite white tuxedo with a simple design of hand-embroidered beading. Mrs. Neville Flower chose a frock of beige grey lace and Mrs. Gordon was smart in white satin. Mrs. A. F. Lascelles' dress was of apricot lace. The band of the Governor-General's Footguards played softly throughout dinner and later a brief stay at the Strathcona Hotel on his way to the Shriners' convention at San Francisco and the Olympic Games.

Mr. West said that the new oil fields all around his home in East Texas cover 500 square miles and contain 6,000 wells, with an average potential production per well of 20,000 barrels daily.

A fire department crew was called out at 1 o'clock Sunday morning to extinguish a burning haystack on Quimper Street, Oak Bay.

Stafford E. Meldrum has joined the staff of Premier Macdonald's limited agents for Durant and Humphreys cars.

GARDENS HERE MOST BEAUTIFUL

"The most beautiful thing we have seen so far is Butchart's Gardens," said Mr. E. West, United States tourist, who since he left his home in Canton, East Texas, less than two weeks ago with his wife, two little daughters and colored chauffeur, has motored 3,200 miles and taken in such beauty spots as the national parks at Yellowstone, Glacier and Mount Rainier.

"We expect to have traveled 8,000 miles before the remaining two weeks of my vacation are spent," said Mr. West, who left for Seattle this afternoon after a brief stay at the Strathcona Hotel on his way to the Shriners' convention at San Francisco and the Olympic Games.

GENERAL PANET BACK ON COAST

Head of C.P.R. Department of Investigation Says Prairies Are Wonderful Sight Was Last Here as Guardian of King and Queen of Siam

"It was a wonderful sight on the prairies," said General Panet, D.S.O., chief of the Department of Investigation, Canadian Pacific Railway, speaking of the golden waving grain he saw on his annual tour to the coast from Montreal.

In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the crops looked exceedingly good and the farmers are looking for a bumper harvest," he said at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The general said the total crop for this season was estimated at between 400,000,000 and 500,000,000 bushels. Harvesting is already under way in some sections of Manitoba.

General Panet arrived in the city from his tour over the west end and is accompanied on this occasion by Mrs. Panet.

GUARDED ROYALTY
The last time the general visited Victoria was last year in connection with the visit of King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai Barni of Siam. He met the Siamese royalty on arrival here from Bangkok on April 16 last year, being assigned to look after their safety and he remained with the party throughout its stay in Canada, returning in September when the royal pair left Victoria on their homeward voyage.

The pictures along with other material furnished to the visitors, will be published with a review of the trip through Canada in the official journal of the organization.

Returning to civilian life he was appointed controller of the police department for the Quebec Liquor Commission and has held his present post since 1925.

MEET WISHES OF OWNERS

No Desire to Wipe Out Beauty of Boulevards, Says Parks Head

"In any removal of boulevard trees, the wishes of property owners affected will be given due consideration before anything is done," declared Alderman John Worthington, city parks committee chairman, this morning in a statement about recent complaints over the cutting of trees on Cook Street.

Alderman Worthington pointed out that in cases where removal of trees was planned, the requests for such action had come from the adjacent property owners.

"After all," he added, "surely we must consider the residents next to whose property the trees stand. We will not remove trees unless the majority of property owners affected wish it to be done."

He drew attention to the fact that in some places where trees had grown particularly large roots, the damage to sewers and sidewalks was considerable. Menzies Street was an instance of this, the sidewalk looking like a switchback in parts.

Alderman Worthington said the parks department was now propagating flowering trees such as Japanese plum and dogwood, which could replace the large trees in the future if necessary.

"I can assure everyone that the parks department has no intention of destroying the beauty of Victoria's boulevards, for which the city is justly noted. Through development of the flowering trees in the park nursery we have a conservative plan which will make this city second to none in boulevard beauty," he remarked.

CHURCH SCHOOL IS SUCCESSFUL

Vacation School at Metropolitan Church to Close Friday

Under the sponsorship of First United and Metropolitan churches, the Community Vacation School, in session at the schoolroom of the Metropolitan Church, entered upon its third week of session to-day. The enrolment has increased from ninety-eight during the first week to 141 at the present time. The pupils, ranging in age from four to fourteen and being divided into two departments, where the enrolment is ninety-six in the junior and forty-five in the primary.

A worship service is held each week in the auditorium under the direction of the junior department and hymns and memorized passages of the Scriptures are given by prominent people of important subjects from time to time.

A picnic at Beacon Hill Park was held recently under the supervision of Miss Patry, sports leader. A treasure hunt for a prize, donated by Mrs. E. Stipe, was held. The school will conclude this week with a closing ceremony will be held Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. At the closing ceremony a display of the work will be shown. All parents and other persons interested are invited to attend.

Saskatchewan Pool Asks New Deferment

Regina, Sask., July 25.—Action will be taken Tuesday to permit the Saskatchewan Pool elevators to defer for one year half of $1,109,000 payment, due August 1, to shareholders in the former Co-operative Elevator Company. Hearing of an application will be considered by Mr. Justice Taylor.

The amount, if paid, would be distributed to nearly 40,000 farmer shareholders in the province. Application has been made by the Saskatchewan General Trusts Corporation, liquidators of the co-operative company.

Killed In Auto Crash In U.S.; Funeral Here

Following a motor accident, the death occurred on Friday at Lone Washington, of George Edward Gathercole of Vancouver, B.C., aged sixty years. Mr. Gathercole was born in England and is survived by one son, John W., of Vancouver, and three sisters: Mrs. Sarah Aylin of Victoria, and two sisters in New Denver; also two brothers: B. F. Gathercole of Victoria, two brothers in England and a brother in Saskatchewan. The remains will arrive in Victoria on to-morrow night's boat, and will be removed to McCall Bros' Funeral Home, where the funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

THOMAS HICK
RALPH W. WALTERS
FRANK L. THOMPSON
ALBERT E. NEX
ARNOLD H. CAVE

Mr. Thompson came to Victoria in 1911 from Winnipeg, where he was associated with his uncle, John Thompson, a leading funeral director of that city for over fifty years. The Thompson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, was established by Mr. Thompson in Victoria. Two years ago T. S. Petherly joined the firm, which is now known as Thompson & Petherly Funeral Home.

Mr. Thompson is a Mason, charter member of the Kinsmen Club, Past Grand of No. 1 Lodge, I.O.O.F., and a director of the Royal Arcanum. He resides at 1212 Faithful Street.

Albert E. Nex, known to his many friends as "Bert," is celebrating his twenty-ninth birthday to-day. Bert is one of the partners in the operation of the Fountain Service Station, located at the corner of Hillside Avenue and Douglas Street. Bert has always taken an active interest in Victoria sports and is one of the most popular members of the Green Mill, senior amateur baseball team, present leaders of the local league. He resides at 3081 Carroll Street.

Thomas Hick, whose versatile sporting activities are well known in Victoria, is celebrating his birthday to-day. He is a war veteran, a cricketer, a walker, cricketer and baseball player. In 1920 he played on the championship ball team.

Ralph W. Walters came to Victoria in 1923 from San Francisco, where he has been engaged in the art business for fifteen years. Recently Mr. Walters opened the Victoria Art Gallery and Bazaar on Broad Street, featuring among his exhibits the work of local artists.

Arnold H. Cave probably knows more about Victoria's beautiful scenery than 90 per cent of its citizens. He has been operating sightseeing and taxi cars for the C. & C. Taxi Company for eight years. He is a native of Victoria and was born in Red Deer, Alberta. When he is not operating a taxi, he drives the ambulance company on errands of mercy. He recalled the other day that among the notables who have sat behind him in his car are Viscount Duncanson, son of the late General Duncanson, Premier Bennett and Premier Tolmie.

MANY ATTEND CIVIC PICNIC

City Hall Staff Wins Softball Title; Mayor Gives Brief Address

Showers of rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the large crowd which attended the thirteenth annual picnic of the Civic Employees' Protective Association at Elk Lake Athletic grounds on Saturday, and the outing was voted a great success.

The employees, with their wives and families, traveled by bus from the City Hall, leaving at 10 o'clock in the morning. After several had taken a swim in the refreshing lake waters, luncheon was served at 2 o'clock, followed by sports and softball games.

Mayor David Leeming, who acted as one of the judges in the sports, gave a brief address to the gathering, thanking the employees for their loyalty to the city and reminding them that the city itself had a hard fight ahead of it financially.

"While the city is financially sound, it will take at least twelve years before the gross debt can be lowered materially. After that the taxation burden will decrease steadily until we have the lowest tax rate on the continent," he said.

The Mayor indicated he would confer with the Victoria-Sanich Parks and Beaches committee on the subject of possible improvements at the grounds, which require considerable attention.

The sports events, consisting mainly of running races for the children, were keenly contested. A double play, from Albert Taylor to Norman Lord, to Alf Joyce, in the last half of the ninth inning gave the City Hall staff team the softball championship and the right to hold the R. Elliott Cup for another year. Two games were played, the blacksmith shop team defeating the garbage crew in the first encounter. The winners then met the City Hall squad and were beaten.

Australians Win And Draw Matches

Chicago, July 25.—Australia defeated the Illinois Cricketers yesterday day in their second of three matches in Grant Park, 193 to 137. Don Bradman, heavy hitter of the eleven invaders, failed to show much Australian doing most of the work. On Saturday the Illinois Cricket Association team, which fielded and batted eighteen men, held the Australians to a draw. The time limit set for the game intervened with the visitors, credited with 148 runs for six wickets, while the Illinois batsmen amassed 186 runs for their eighteen wickets.

EMPIRE BUYS B.C. LUMBER

Half-yearly Return Shows Many Changes in Market Conditions

Bumper Prairie Wheat Harvest Inspires Hopes of Mill Operators

Despite reduction in the world demand for lumber, the scale of sawlogs in British Columbia fell off only 15 per cent during the first six months of the current year. A return issued by the forest branch of the Provincial Department of Lands shows that 804,379,000 board feet were scaled, compared with 952,185,000 feet during the first half of 1931. The net reduction in the log scale was 147,806,000 feet for the six months ending June 30.

The sawmills of British Columbia exported increased exports to Australia and the United Kingdom, but suffered severely in the waterborne trade to Atlantic ports and in rail shipments to United States ports.

Shipments to Australia increased to 51,000,000 feet, this being the bulk of the 57,000,000 feet of Pacific Coast lumber required by the Commonwealth. In the same period last year Australia only took from British Columbia 13,000,000 feet of a total importation of 34,000,000 feet from this Coast.

The United Kingdom increased its importations of lumber from British Columbia by one-third, to a total of 50,000,000 feet. This was the more striking because the half year's purchase of lumber from the Pacific Coast fell 50,000,000 feet. In the first half of 1931 the United Kingdom imported 93,000,000 feet of lumber from the Pacific northwest, of which only 37,000,000 feet were from British Columbia.

The total waterborne sales of lumber to points other than the United States, increased during the half year from 150,880,000 feet to 163,544,000 feet, or 10 per cent.

EXPECT PRAIRIE DEMAND

The forest branch anticipates that the severe falling-off in sales to the prairies is about to show a reversal. While no figures are available as to the business done during the last half year, the prospects of a great wheat crop, combined with the effect of deferred buying during the last three years, are expected to provide the mills with many orders for lumber in the months. The severity of the contraction in the prairie trade is shown by the consumption for the last three years, which was as follows: 1929, 407,000,000 feet; 1930, 379,000,000 feet; 1931, 176,000,000 feet.

Similar restriction has marked shipments to eastern Canada, which in the last three years were 1929, 215,000,000 feet; 1930, 175,000,000 feet, and 1931, 119,000,000 feet.

Waterborne shipments to Atlantic ports have decreased during the half year from 1929, 175,000,000 feet, and 1931, 125,413,000 feet for the same period of last year.

All United States markets have shown great falling-off, and since the imposition of the new tariff are not relied upon as a factor of importance.

Much rough lumber used to be absorbed by the waterborne trade to the Atlantic Coast, this trade last year having amounted to 317,000,000 feet. New markets are being sought for this product, and hopes are held that China will turn to British Columbia to make good 300,000,000 feet formerly obtained from Japan and Manchuria.

PLAN TO RUSH PLANE TO INJURED MINER

At Centerville, a new mining camp in the Caspar district, lies a man named Crawford badly burned by a premature explosion. His only hope, if any, lies in a quick trip by airplane to Skagway or Juneau.

Word to this effect was received here to-day by the provincial police.

Provincial police advises state that Amateur Station V83PG, owned by J. Hocking, at Prince George, picked up the message broadcast by young George H. Latham, wireless operator at the camp, saying Crawford was badly burned in a premature explosion, and was in a critical condition.

Albert P. Griffiths, chartered accountant of this city, who is representative of the syndicate developing the property, notified the provincial Berlin, July 25.—The German cabinet decided to-night to ask President Hindenburg to rescind martial law in Berlin and the province of Brandenburg to-morrow.

GEORGE LOTT IS DEFEATED

U.S. Tennis Star and Partner Lose to Mr. and Mrs. Salmond in Canadian Meet

Canadian Press
Rideau Tennis Club, Ottawa, July 25.—George Lott Jr., Chicago star, and Ruth Grierson of Ottawa, were eliminated from the mixed doubles competition of the Canadian tennis championships here this afternoon, losing to Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Salmond, Toronto, handicapped by the fact that they had never played together before.

Lott and Miss Grierson were defeated in the second round match 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Mrs. Salmond, the former Hope Leeming, Victoria, played brilliant tennis and Salmond himself was steady throughout. Lott never reached the form but was hitting them from all angles and placing well. Although she played good tennis, Miss Grierson was unable to adequately match Mrs. Salmond's wizardry.

Leroy Rennie, former Davis Cup player, met defeat in the first round, bowing to F. Falconbridge, young Montrealer.

Falconbridge took the first set 8-6, lost the second 4-6, and then came with a rush to capture the third 6-2. The veteran Rennie, who plays from Toronto, was unable to match the Montreal youngster's dazzling speed except in the second set.

Lott had little trouble in his first-round singles, beating Dr. Rene Bolle, Montreal, 6-2, 6-0.

RYALL WINS
"Ossie" Ryall, first ranking British Columbian, met a good local player in Jimmie Wood, but won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. The Vancouverite was extended but never was in danger of losing out. L. Watt, Montreal, captured his first-round match with W. M. Foster, Ottawa, by 6-1, 7-5.

French Fans Favor Von Cramm In His Match With Vines

Crowd Objects to Decision in Favor of U.S. Champion and Becomes Unruly; Vines Defeats Von Cramm, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7, 6-3, to Give U.S. Win Over Germany and Right to Contest Davis Cup Final Against France; Daniel Prenn Defeats Frank Shields, 6-1, 6-0, 6-8, 6-2

Paris, July 25.—The United States Davis Cup team yesterday clinched victory over Germany. Three matches to two, in the interzone finals at Roland Garros stadium and gained the right to challenge France for the historic trophy next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Ellsworth Vines Jr. settled the series when he defeated Baron Gottfried von Cramm, Germany's No. 2 player, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7, 6-3 in the first of yesterday's final singles matches.

With nothing at stake, Frank Shields then was defeated for the second time in the series by Daniel Prenn, Germany No. 1 star, by scores of 6-1, 6-0, 6-8, 6-2.

Vines won both of his singles matches, defeating both Prenn and Von Cramm, and the doubles team of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn won their match from the two-hard-working German stars Saturday to give the United States its margin of victory.

CROWD HOSTILE
The Americans played before a decidedly hostile crowd yesterday, a near riot threatening at one point in Vines' match with Von Cramm, when the audience thought the U.S. champion had been given the benefit of a doubtful decision.

FRANCE SELECTS DAVIS CUP TEAM
Paris, July 25.—After two hours of discussion, the French Tennis Federation yesterday announced the team of Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Bousquet would represent France in the Davis Cup challenge round against the United States this week-end. Bena Lacoste is definitely out because of illness.

E. HASENFRATZ AND WILSON WIN
Capture Honors in Cup Events at Club Shoot of Victoria Gun Club

E. Hasenfratz and E. B. Wilson carried off the honors in the seventh club shoot of the Victoria Gun Club held yesterday at its Colwood traps. In The Colist Cup event Hasenfratz shattered 24 out of 25 birds, while Wilson broke 23 out of 25 in the Dominion trophy event.

Johny Wenger continued his fine shooting by 21 out of 24 in the doubles event, to finish in first place.

Hood and Tanner, two beginners, made their first appearances at the traps yesterday, and turned in creditable scores for their initial attempts.

Wilkerson Shield Event at Uplands
The Wilkerson Anniversary Shield competition will engage members of Uplands Golf Club on Sunday, July 31. The conditions are eighteen holes match play, with handicap, against par.

The entrance fee will be 50 cents and entries will close on Friday, July 29.

Plucky Play Wins Arlington Classic
Chicago, July 25.—They finally conquered Equipe, 1932 handicap champion of the American turf, Saturday. In a thrilling, heart-breaking finish as any race crowd ever witnessed, Plucky Play, the surprise horse of the turf, broke the winning streak of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's great four-year-old, defeating him by a neck in the Arlington Handicap, a race that was worth $27,500.

Plucky Play ran the mile and a quarter, leading from start to finish, in 2:02 1/5. Pittsburgher was third. Trud Avon fourth, White Clover II fifth, and Stepanchitch last.

North Shore and Manitoba Champs Play To Deadlock

Opening Match of Western Football Final Ends in 1-to-1 Draw; Second and Deciding Battle To-day; Winner Will Travel East to Engage Toronto Scottish in Canadian Final; Scottish Win Eastern Honors After Dropping Second Game to Montreal

Winnipeg, July 25.—Government Telephones, soccer champions of Manitoba, and North Shore United, British Columbia titlists, divided honors here Saturday at Carruthers Park when they played to a 1-to-1 tie in the first of a two-game series to provide western representation in the Dominion final for the Canadian soccer crown. The second game will be played this evening.

Replete with thrills, Saturday's tussle was in doubt until the final whistle. The snappy, short-passing combination of the British Columbia champions placed them in the lead just before the half-time whistle sounded, when McNichol netted on a neat pass from Todd. Norman Yellowlees tied the count for Manitoba in the second half.

Bad judgment and wild shooting cost Manitoba a number of opportunities to score. Twice in the first half open goals were missed. British Columbia also missed a golden opportunity early in the second half when Todd, north side inside left, split the telephone defense wide open only to shoot well over the bar.

Four Crowns To Gracyn Wheeler In B.C. Tennis

California Junior Star in Great Performance in Finals of Clay Court Championships at Vancouver; Defeats Dorothea Swartz in Women's Singles Final; Casey and Prusoff Take Men's Doubles in Thrilling Match With Sparring and Robbs; Prusoff Wins Men's Singles

Vancouver, July 25.—Visiting tennis stars carried off all major honors in the B.C. clay court championships which concluded yesterday afternoon at Jericho. Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., won the women's singles in the final with Dorothea Swartz, San Francisco, in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-1. Miss Wheeler, who had won the junior championship on Saturday, then paired with Miss Swartz to win the doubles from Mrs. Mary Haggart and Vess O'Shea, 6-1, 6-2. Completing her triumph, Miss Wheeler took the court with Cyril Robbs, former South African, now of Portland, to win the mixed from Miss Swartz and Ray Casey by scores of 6-4, 6-2.

In the only other final played yesterday, Casey and Prusoff carried off the doubles by sets of 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. The other event, the men's singles, was played Saturday, Prusoff winning from Murie, Californian, in four sets.

BRILLIANT VOLLEYING
Sparring and Robbs put up a strong fight against Casey and Prusoff in a match featured by some of the most brilliant net volleys and short cross-courts seen here this season. Robbs' placements were the best of the four, and he was repeatedly and deservedly applauded for his court generalship.

Sparring held his own a good part of the time, but was especially weak in his overhead. Casey's serving was another feature, winning seven out of eight deliveries in the last three sets.

With the score tied at 2-2 in the first set, the Americans quickly ran the count to 5-2. Here Prusoff lost service and Robbs won his, to make it 5-4, but Casey came through again to run out at 6-4. Sparring opened service in the second set and won, this procedure continued for four games, then Casey and Prusoff broke through Sparring's delivery, to lead at 3-2, but Casey lost to tie the count again. Casey and Prusoff took the next two, but Sparring won again, to make it 5-4. As in the first set, Casey won delivery, to take a two-set lead.

Robbs and Sparring played their best tennis in the third set, while Prusoff went off very badly, having great difficulty in finding the back line. After Robbs and Sparring led 4-1, Casey won service and Sparring lost, the latter double-faulting for one point. Robbs and Sparring outgamed their opponents in the next two games, to win 5-3.

In the last set, game followed service, with Casey and Prusoff leading at the end of the seventh game. At this point on his own service, Sparring double-faulted once and won three out of four, Casey coming through the third time to win the decisive game and the match.

The women's singles final was one of the best exhibitions of tennis played during the week. Both Gracy Wheeler and Dorothea Swartz were volleying hard and accurately, but Miss Wheeler had the better control, and her hands. She also varied her service from a hard overhead to a soft cut ball, which appeared to disturb her opponent.

Miss Wheeler, in her four tournament wins in the P.N.W. circuit, has won the Oregon State, the western Canada and the B.C. Clay Court. She lost the B.C. title to Miss Swartz, her opponent in the final.

Without a rest, Miss Wheeler and Swartz took the court against Mrs. Haggart and Miss O'Shea, and though the Vancouver ladies put up a fine fight in the opening set the touring party was sturdier, and won on their merits.

The mixed final was possibly the flashiest of the day, with all four players pulling off remarkable plays in every game. Here again was proved his superiority in doubles play, his half volleys being spectacular, while the ladies easily upheld their end with stinging forehand drives that barely skimmed the net. More than once Miss Wheeler raced Casey down the alley. Miss Wheeler's backhand work was another feature of this match.

H. CAMPBELL IS NET STAR
Victoria Girl Captures Three Titles in South Cowichan Tourney Finals

Helene Campbell, one of Victoria's leading tennis players, pulled the "hat-trick" in the finals of the South Cowichan Tennis Club's annual tournament yesterday. Miss Campbell turned in a brilliant performance to carry off three titles.

In the women's singles the Victoria club defeated Mrs. R. B. Wilson, also of Victoria, in three sets. Miss Campbell continued her march by pairing with Mona Miller to win the women's doubles from Mrs. R. B. Wilson and Mrs. Broome, 7-5, 6-4. In the mixed doubles Miss Campbell paired with Ross Hocking to capture her third title, by a victory over Mrs. I. A. Phillips and Eric Leney, 6-4, 6-0.

W. E. Corfield won the men's singles by his three set victory over J. R. Brown, Mancharia, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5. The men's doubles title went to J. R. Brown and Schwengers, after a hard-fought five set match with Eric McCallum and Bill Merston, 5-7, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

Maxine Ewart and N. Corfield won the mixed handicap doubles, while Miss Ewart and Corfield won the two consolation singles events.

Drop Initial Game of Cricket Schedule to Incogs; Victoria Takes Lead

Five C's Score Splendid Win Over Cowichan Team at Up-island Ground

Reg Wenman's steady batting and the smart fielding of the Incogs sent the Wanderers down to their first defeat of the season in Saturday's feature cricket tussle the Victoria team, which has drawn two games, into the leadership. Victoria climbed into first berth with a smart win over the Albions. In the other game of the day Five C's gained a victory over Cowichan at the up-island grounds.

Incogs bowling and fielding was exceptionally good as they retired the Wanderers for 107 runs after Darcus had batted twenty-five not out and Lethaby and Thorne had each contributed twenty-one. Sparks was dismissed for but seven runs on a catch by Jordan, as the Incogs opened their innings, but Wenman drove out sixty-one with his wicket still standing. Weaver added sixteen, Allen and Alexander ten and Hamber six, before the side retired with 110 for five wickets.

TOOK FIVE WICKETS
Jordan took the five Incogs wickets which fell for fifty-six runs in eleven overs. Wenman and Hamber each took three and Allen and Lock two of the Wanderers' wickets.

Batting by Frank Allwood and Meredith, who knocked out fifty-one and forty-six respectively, featured Victoria's win over the Albions at Beacon Hill. Albions were all out for seventy-one, although Kinch made a good forty-one, not out. Wilkinson bowled well for Victoria, taking eight wickets in thirteen overs for nineteen runs.

D. Laird, with fifty-six, led the Five C's batsmen at Duncan as his team defeated the up-landers by twelve runs.

Dorothy Dix Urges Organizing Relief Band of Trained Substitute Mothers to Take Care of Children and Run Household While Mother Goes Off on Restful, Carefree Vacation

IT IS one of the little ironies of life that the one individual who most needs a vacation seldom gets it. That's mother. All the remainder of the family get tired and need a change and rest and diversion, but mother is supposed to get all the recreation she requires in slaving for the remainder of the family and seeing that they have a good time. Yet mother's work is the hardest, the most monotonous, the most never-ending in the world. There is no union card and six-hour day for her. She does not even get laid off on a strike.

Of course, in well-to-do families mother gets an alleged vacation when she takes the children and goes off to spend a month or so in the country, where she has to work ten times as hard as she did at home because there is no city conveniences and no market handy right around the corner. Mother always return from these holidays looking as if she had been dragged through a keyhole, yet she has not had a thing to do but to keep a lot of bored children amused and nurse them through spells of ivy poisoning and cuts and bruises and too much green fruit, and run a free roadhouse for her friends and their friends who just happened to be motoring by and knew she would be so glad to cook them an extra meal.

There is not anybody else on earth who would consider it a restful diversion to go off on an excursion with a baby and with Junior and little sister at an age at which they have to be watched every instant to prevent them from committing suicide, but a mother is supposed to have the time of her life wrestling with a wailing infant that is fretful because its habits have been broken up and running after youngsters who have an inspired gift for getting into mischief.

Furthermore, it is popularly believed that a mother can never get enough of her children's society, and that to separate her from them for even an instant would cause her unendurable anguish.

Never was there a greater mistake in the world. No matter how much a mother loves her children, no matter how willingly she sacrifices herself for them, in time she gets fed up on them. They get on her nerves until she feels as if she would scream if she had to answer another question, and that she would lie down and die if she had to get up and hunt for another cap or baseball or hair ribbon, and that she could choke the next little voice that cried M-o-t-h-e-r. It is then, when mothers begin to pick on their children and say "don't" to everything they do, that they need a vacation.

And they need this vacation away from their children, not with them. They need to go off by themselves, where they can be themselves instead of just the children's mother; where they can put on a pretty dress without thinking how the baby will muss it; where they can get a good night's sleep without keeping an ear open for a call for a drink and one eye open to see if little Sally has kicked the cover off; where they can order a meal without first considering if it has enough spinach and carrots in it to furnish vitamins for the children; where they can take a walk without having to hold the baby's hand and having Junior pulling on their skirts.

Two weeks, or even one week, of a vacation like this would straighten out the kinks in mother's nerves and give her a new perspective on her job and make her see that bringing up a family is the most glorious and worthwhile career a woman can follow, instead of the greatest drudgery. It would give her fresh patience and more wisdom in dealing with her children and change her from a nagging tyrant into a pal.

Of course, every mother wants to be with her children most of the time, just as a man wants to be at his business most of the time, but she needs a break from the regular grind even as a man does, and a vacation from her children would increase her efficiency, just as much as it increases a man's efficiency in his business.

Most mothers would say that this idea of mothers taking a vacation is a fine theory, but that it is something that cannot be done. That no one could take their place. That they have no one to leave the children with.

But that is all nonsense. None of us are absolutely necessary in the scheme of things, and when mother works and frets herself to death, some relative or some middle-aged woman whose own children have flown the home nest or a trained child specialist is found as a substitute. So why not get Aunt Sally or Cousin Sue or Mrs. Brown or a capable nurse from the baby hospital to take mother's place for a few days and keep mother from a nervous breakdown or out of the cemetery?

I commend this subject of giving mothers vacations from their children to husbands and to Junior Leaguers. To husbands who have failed to perceive the importance of giving their wives a holiday, because while they knew that taking care of the baby for even a Sunday afternoon wore them out to a frazzle, they have thought it mere play for a mother to do it all day and every day for 365 consecutive days.

And to Junior Leaguers I say that they could perform no more beautiful or worthwhile work than organizing a band of trained substitute mothers who could go into the homes of poor, tired, overworked women and take care of their houses and children for them while they went off on a vacation that would send them back rested, refreshed and able to carry on with their great work.

Adventure of the Sea

VI—PERMISSION TO GO

The story so far—The director of a great museum has agreed to pay the cost of a voyage which an old sea captain has planned to an island in the Atlantic. The captain expects to find a rich store of fossil bones on the island, and the director has promised a goodly reward if the journey is a success. Two sailors have just come to visit the captain.

Roberta told the sailors to come right in. When they approached the captain, one of them said:

"Would you like to go, Allen?"

"We have been thinking about that voyage, and we want to tell you that we're willing to help you, anyway we can. We don't want you to pay us any wages if you don't locate the island."

"That's mighty good of you, boys," replied the captain, "but the Museum of Natural History has agreed to pay all expenses, and they will give me a reward if the trip is successful."

"Well, now," said the other man, "I'm glad of that. We wanted to help a little if we could. I suppose you are going to take Allen along?"

The boy was standing nearby, and felt like throwing his arms around the sailor when the last sentence was spoken. He had been longing to go on the voyage.

"Fact to tell," said the captain, turning toward his grandson. "I hadn't planned to do that. It's going to be a long trip; but still it's vacation time, now. Would you like to go, Allen?"

"Would I?" exclaimed the boy. "There's nothing I'd like better!"

"Then I guess we'll have to take you!"

"How about me?" asked Roberta.

"Why, you're just a little girl!"

"Yes, grandpa, but little girls sometimes go on sea trips. You know I've been good when I went on other steamer trips, and if you let me go on this one, I'll be the best little girl in the world!"

"I guess I'm in for it," said the captain. "Yes, you can go."

He spoke these words slowly, as if they had been forced out of him; but in his secret heart he was happy that Allen and Roberta would be with him when he set forth on his Great Adventure.

Mr. And Mrs.—

WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO GET A FRAME FOR THAT NICE ETCHING PEGGY WHITE GAVE YOU?

YOU WERE CRAZY ABOUT IT WHEN SHE GAVE IT TO YOU AND WERE GOING TO HAVE IT FRAMED RIGHT AWAY.

YOU WERE ALWAYS GETTING PICTURES FRAMED WHEN WE WERE FIRST MARRIED—ANY OLD PICTURE.

Extensive Contract Will Mean Reconstruction of West Coast Wharf

Ottawa, July 25.—The government wharf at Port Renfrew, West Coast of Vancouver Island, will be reconstructed this summer and bids for repairs and improvements are now being invited by the Federal Department of Public Works. They will close with the secretary N. Desjardins at noon (daylight saving time), August 6. Cheques for ten per cent of the contract price must accompany each bid.

Plans and form of contract can be seen and specifications and forms of tender obtained at the department here, at the office of the district engineer, Post Office Building, Victoria, and Post Office Building, New Westminster; at the Victoria Builders' Exchange Limited, 1712 Douglas Street, Victoria; the Building and Construction Industries Exchange, 342 West Pender Street, Vancouver; also at the Post Office, Port Renfrew. Blue prints are obtainable from the department in Ottawa on deposit of $10.

Briefly the work comprises the following: (a) Construction of four crescent fender dolphins, each of 14 crescent and three untreated piles, and two crescent pile mooring dolphins of seven pile each; (b) renewal of wharfhead and approach superstructure, using crescented lumber for caps, stringers and joists and untreated lumber for decking, guard and handrail; (c) construction of new 16x36-foot freight shed; (d) renewal of existing crib logs; (e) renewal of twenty-two fender piles and two five-pile corner dolphins of untreated piles; (f) construction of fourteen concrete footings. The approach is 250 feet in length, while the wharfhead measures 180x30 feet. Specifications call for approximately 59,500 feet board measure of lumber, in addition to piling.

Sea Cadets Hosts To Many Visitors

Young Sailors of Victoria Display Their Talents at Rodd Hill Camp Site
Spend Enjoyable Two Weeks Under Canvas on Shores of Esquimalt Harbor

Future seamen of Canada, displaying all they have learned of the sea, were seen in action Saturday afternoon at Rodd Hill, where the annual camp of the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps of the Victoria branch of the Navy League is being held. The young sailors were hosts to a large party of visitors who went out to the camp to see just what had been going on for the last two weeks. They were not disappointed and during the afternoon the boys in blue kept their visitors interested as they engaged in a sports programme and showed their guests about the sea and attractive camp.

This year's camp is in a most desirable location, pitched upon gently sloping ground between the west shore of Esquimalt harbor and deep green forest. The camp is a ship and is 300 feet in length. The name Rainbow is printed out in clam shells on the upper deck of a ship and is the Blue Ensign flag at the bow. The Union Jack flag at the stern. The camp was on a fine and many bright little pennants fluttered in the breeze and the ship's bell was burred until it shone.

The Minkata and the Taseko, the latter sailed by Cliff Adams and H. A. Romani, provided another close and thrilling finish, the winner getting over the line just thirty-eight seconds ahead of the Taseko. The Minkata went around the course in fifty-five minutes and thirty seconds, while the Taseko's time was fifty-six minutes and eight seconds. Third in the star vent was Bob Blandy in the Boykin, and fourth in the fourth place went to the Genie, sailed by N.P. Blandy.

Despite recent victories by Kismet, the Tern is still in the lead for the series. Already Tern has won two of the points, with Kismet second, with 80 per cent and Helen third with 77 per cent. In the star event Minkata is first with 94 per cent of the points and Taseko second with 70 per cent.

Next week-end there will be much activity at the Yacht Club. Saturday afternoon will see the finish of the Capital to Capital motorboat race, when the boats from Olympia will race to the Yacht Club moorings in Cadboro Bay. It is understood there are already thirty entries in this race. Here, in the afternoon, the older members of the club will have a social gathering in the clubhouse. In the afternoon Commodore and Mrs. F. A. Lindsay will entertain the local members and their wives, along with the visiting yachtsmen at tea in the club house.

Sunday will see the start from Cadboro Bay of the motorboat race to Seattle for the Halcrow Cup. Several local members intend to compete in this race.
